Group seeks to recall commissioners

Disgusted over the inability of the county to solve its financial problems, a group of citizens called the "Committee for Common Sense in Politicians" will hold a rally at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 25 at the VFW Hall, on Ford Rd. and Van Born, (31033 Ford Rd.)

"We are starting up a campaign to recall all of the commissioners," said Craig Shelton, co-chairman of the committee. "We do not like the way they are spending our tax dollars. We do not like the way they are handling county government and it's time we did something about it."

Citizens who wish further information about the group may telephone Shelton at 697-5473 or co-chairman Kathy Kamable at 425-0559.

Life saving weapons of mercy

to extricate a trapped occupant from a smashed vehicle. Shown laying on the car trunk in the foreground is a new hydraulic power cutter also recently purchased in the city's drive to have the best rescue equipment available. ANP photo by Lothar Konietzko.

'Invaluable in rescue cases'

Firefighters receive unique tool to help trapped auto victims

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Poets and writers have long spoken of dying as being figuratively in the "jaws of death."

Therefore it is called fitting indeed by fire department and rescue workers that a cutting tool to free passengers from wrecked cars is named "Jaws of Life."

Romulus Fire Department received its second set of Jaws of Life Rescue tools recently and has them demonstrated to the fire fighters. Fire Chief John Wilhide also watched the demonstration of the new power cutting tools that exerts more than 15 tons of cutting force to rip open smashed cars to free trapped occupants.

"These new Jaws of Life rescue tools are an invaluable addition to our rescue operations," Wilhide said. "Many lives will be saved because we have these new tools to free passengers from cars that are smashed in automobile accidents."

In addition to the Hurst Jaws of Life Rescue tool, Romulus also purchased a Model Q hydraulic power cutter that weighs 33 lbs. and has a cutting force of 15 tons. It is 30 inches long, 11.5 inches wide and 11 inches high.

"With these new high-powered weapons to cut and rip open metal, we will be able to cut around occupants of smashed automobiles or other vehicles and free them," Wilhide pointed out.

There are several rescue tools available from Hurst Performance Company in Huntingdon Valley, Pa. which can be used in conjunction with Romulus' present system. Four tools can be run from one power supply simply by adding extra hoses. Included in the rescue tools available are porta-power, com-along, cutting tool, air chisel, cutoff saw, crow bar, panel cutter, axe, sledge hammer, bolt cutter, hack saw, wrecker and brute force.

The Jaws of Life rescue tools purchased by Romulus cost $6,650 and will be used by the new fire station on Eureka Road. The second set is used by Fire Station No. 1 at Bibbins and Shook.

Last Sunday several firefighters planned to go to Environ Company on Northline Road in Romulus. The company takes damaged vehicles and crushes them flat with huge machines. The fire fighters were going to practice cutting metal on some of the damaged vehicles to become more efficient in the use of the new rescue tools.

In related fire department news, Fire Chief Wilhide attended a seminar in Canton Township Thursday about wood-burning stoves. He was accompanied to the seminar by Bill Case, electrical inspector for the City of Romulus, and

City, county at odds over policing bill

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley, describing the situation as "extremely unfortunate," called on City Council last night to "make our position very clear to the county" regarding police protection.

Romulus contracts its police protection from Wayne County and the two governmental units are at loggerheads over how much the city is in arrears in its payments.

The county claims Romulus owes it about $840,000 and Mayor Oakley says it is about half that amount. "They said they would itemize our Police expenses but they never have," Oakley said Friday.

"We pay Wayne County $142,000 a month for police protection — about $1.3 million a year. They charge us a 20 percent administration fee, so they make a profit of more than $200,000 a year. And still we have not been able to come to an agreement on a contract."

"It seems to me that since the county is so financially destitute, it would want to keep an account (Romulus) that gives them a profit of $200,000 a year."

Oakley said that Romulus cut its police services to some extent last May — a move estimated to save the city some $26,000 a month. "However, we have continued to pay the same $142,000 a month — letting the additional $26,000 go toward whatever amount the city may be in arrears to Wayne County."

Oakley said the county has not itemized their charges to Romulus, nor will they let an independent auditor go over its books. "I've offered to sit down with Samuel Turner (County Board Chairman) for as long as it takes to work out a contract — and I'm hoping it can be arranged," Oakley said.

Oakley said he talked by phone to Turner two weeks ago and is hopeful of hearing from him as soon as possible.

In the meantime, the Romulus mayor said the city has to make sure the residents have police protection. With that in mind, he sent a memo to City Council at its regular meeting last night, asking it to adopt an appropriate resolution informing Wayne County that an agreement must be reached as soon as possible regarding police protection.

"If there is one thing which our community is quickly learning in the process of establishing a police department, it is that the process is going to be extremely difficult, time-consuming and delicate," Oakley informed Council members.

"Because of that, and in that the courts have ruled that May 19 is the last date of the County's obligation to us contractually, I believe that we should make our position very clear to the County as to what we anticipate for that date."

"I believe that we should now inform the County, in writing, that unless we have reached an agreement with them in the very near future, that we will take alternative measures and assume that

Romulus may create own force

Although city officials look upon the issue with great trepidation, it's beginning to look more and more like Romulus will have to establish its own police force in the next few weeks and months.

Certainly before May 19 — the last day that Romulus has been promised contracted protection from the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol.

And to make matters even more unsure, last week members of the deputies' union turned down a tentative agreement worked out with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to keep them employed through May 19.

In the ever-changing, confusing unraveling of events, the Board of Commissioners earlier said they could not fund the County Deputies past Feb. 1 and announced that 242 officers would have to be laid off as of that date. However, the courts ruled that the deputies should be kept on the payroll through May 19.

When county officials and employee unions representing the deputies announced a tentative agreement two weeks ago, the crisis seemed to have been averted. As part of the agreement, the Board of Commissioners offered to keep the 242 Wayne County deputies on the payroll through May 19 in exchange for wage, overtime and other benefit concessions totaling approximately $1.65 million.

However, the lieutenants and sergeants union — Local 1917 American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) — said a majority of their membership rejected the tentative agreement their leadership had agreed to some two weeks earlier.

Local 1917 met Thursday in a special session to vote on the tentative agreement and reported that it was voted down. A letter was then sent to the Board of Commissioners, signed by Dale C. Orth, vice-president of Local 1917, and James Kalil, chairman of the sheriff's inspectors unit, informing them that a majority of their members felt they had not been dealt with in good faith.

They said some deputies received only partial paychecks Feb. 13 while

Store owner robbed

Police hunt 2 armed robbers

Two bandits, one armed with an 8-inch pipe, escaped with an undetermined amount of money after holding up a store owner and an employee at a market in Van Buren last week.

The robbers, both in their late teens or early 20s, walked into Montroy's Market, 41375 Van Born, in Van Buren Township around 11 a.m. last Thursday and ordered the store owner to hand over all of the receipts in the cash register.

The victim, Virginia Montroy and an employee, Shirley Smith, told Wayne County Sheriff's Department Detectives Ed Lindberg and Robert Pond that one of the men apparently had been in the store earlier to make a purchase. "When the robbers returned," Det. Lindberg explained, "they had some sort of white material, a gauze-type mask on their face. Also, one of the men brandished an 8-inch pipe and told the victims to hand over the money."

After placing the cash, around $150, into a brown paper bag, the two men fled the store, brushing into a customer who was about to enter the building.

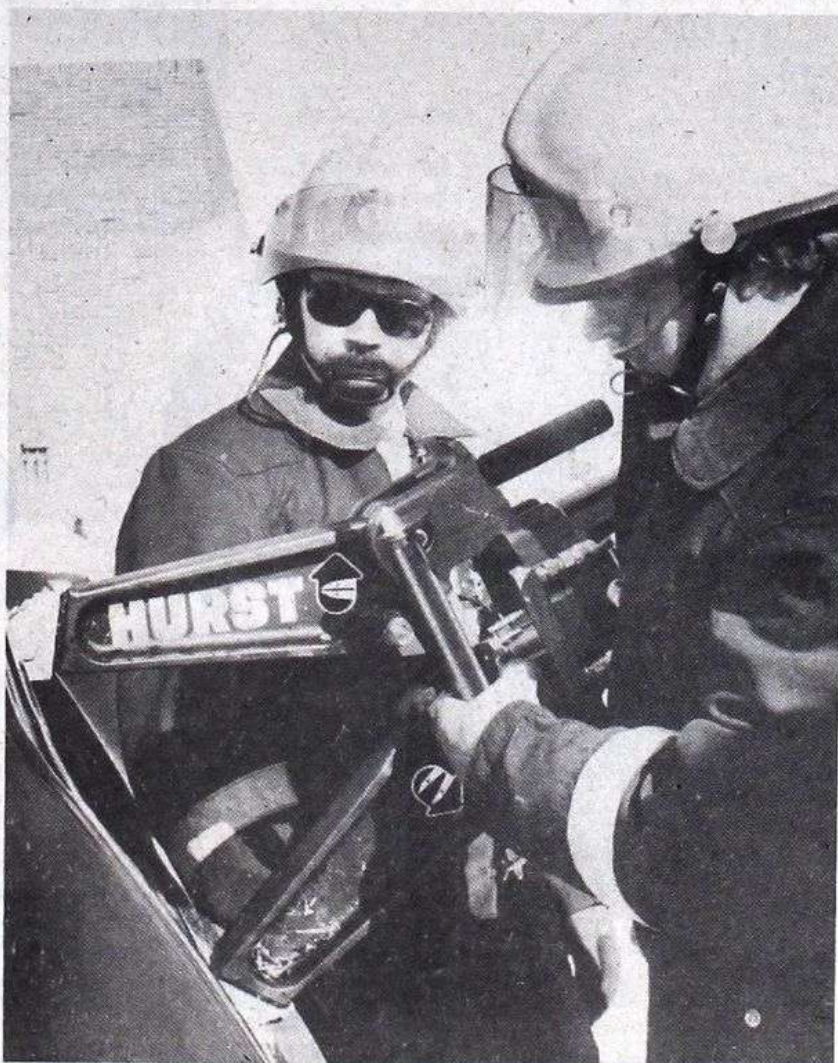

The customer told the officers that he believed the robbers got into a dark blue over light blue 1973 Grand Torino car. The getaway vehicle was last seen heading south on Haggerty Road on 1-94.

The one suspect who had entered the store to purchase a bottle of pop was described as in his late 20s, about 5 feet, 9 inches, muscularly built, blond, curly short hair. This suspect also produced the pipe.

The second man is described as about the same age, short, slender in build, with dark straight hair. He had on a dark-blue jacket shirt with a zipper. The man also wore a chain with a medalion on it.

Anyone with any information about the two robbers is urged to contact either Det. Lindberg or Pond at the Wayne County Sheriff's Department at 721-2222.

Grassam Chiropractic Life Center

Dr. Grassam Says:

ACTIVE CHILDREN DESERVE CHIROPRACTIC PROTECTION

Children = Constant Change

The outstanding characteristic of young children is their constant change. Busy and eager, they are growing and developing continuously. Active bodies, hearty appetites, clear skins and bright eyes indicate a normal maturing process. They have so much to do, so much to learn about the world in which they live. The world of the sick child, however, is restricted by his illness. Healthy activity wanes; eyes become dull; appetites decline.

How disease can start

Because a child is especially active, his body absorbs much stress each day. He may fall or be pushed or jolted. These forceful activities can produce spinal misalignments, which are called subluxations.

Disease and the spinal column

The spinal column is an important, and often overlooked, part of a child's growth and development. The spine is extremely vulnerable to abnormal development until the end of the rapid growth period (15 to 19 years), and is not completely developed until the young adult is approximately 25 years old.

The importance of correcting abnormalities early in childhood cannot be overemphasized. Too little attention is paid to traumatic incidences which could fixate and/or decrease normal movement of segments in the spine.

How your Chiropractor can help

Your doctor of chiropractic is trained to detect interference to the nervous system caused by misalignment or subluxation of the spine. He can determine whether your child has a subluxation and can correct it with spinal adjustments.

Chronic disease in adults often originates as a minor complaint in childhood. Many of these conditions can be prevented by your chiropractor.

Children make good chiropractic patients

Doctors of chiropractic find children especially good patients. They respond quickly to spinal adjustments and are delighted to learn adjustments are not uncomfortable. Parents are happy, too, when they see their child rapidly responding to treatment.

Proper diet, sufficient sleep, good posture and constructive exercise are important factors in proper growth and development. Our children's future depends on good health; protect it, accompany your children to your chiropractor regularly.

A Patient's Story:

I Had Pneumonia 13 times

I am asthmatic, and used to need six injections a week. I had to use the inhaler every day. If I played too hard, I'd have an asthma attack.

I had pneumonia 13 times, and several times a year my folks had to rush me to emergency.

Fortunately, my mom got a job working for Dr. Grassam, and she began bringing me in for adjustments. Now I hardly ever have an asthma attack, and I don't need any medication. I can play and do anything I want.

I only wish we hadn't waited so long!

Children May have a Spinal Defect Without Knowing it!

A spinal injury or defect which may occur may not have dramatic effects. It may occur subtly and grow worse with time. Children do not usually recognize subtle health problems, rather they learn to adapt and suffer in silence. As a result, many spinal defects are unknown both to parent and child. And to make the spinal defect even more mysterious, when the problem grows more serious and pain is felt, it often occurs in a part of the body not ordinarily associated with the spine.

WESTLAND—Mayor Tom Taylor of Westland announced this week that he will not seek re-election to the office he has held for the past six years.

At a news conference held Monday in City Hall, Taylor said he was making the announcement to clear the air about any speculations of his future. He said he was making the announcement on the eve of an election in Westland no matter what the outcome of the election.

Westland voters were to go to the polls on Tuesday (Feb. 24) to decide the fate of municipally-owned cable TV and a 1.5-mill levy which would help sew up a projected $1.2 million deficit caused by a decline in returned revenues from the state and federal governments, officials say.

Taylor said that he will tie his future with a cable TV firm after the November elections.

INKSTER—Services were held last week for Associated Newspapers columnist Jane Ross, whose weekly column appeared in The Inkster Ledger Star. Mrs. Ross, 63, succumbed to an apparent heart attack.

A member of the Cherry Hill Board of Education, Mrs. Ross' journalistic career expanded over four decades. She began her writing career at the New York Times and later her features appeared in many of the state's newspapers.

A colorful and many times controversial figure, Mrs. Ross had interviewed the great and the small on the national and the local political arena.

Mrs. Ross' column was read by just about everyone in Inkster where she and her family resided for the past 22 years. She joined the Associated Newspapers in early 1978 and covered the Inkster City Hall and political scene, also writing about the social scene.

Mrs. Ross was on the board of directors of Neighborhood Services for Wayne County, was a panelist for Michigan Art Council, section of creative writers and was the founder of "We Care". She also served as publicity chairman for the American Cancer Society of Wayne County and was a member of the Inkster Good-fellows.

She is survived by her husband, Tom; married daughter Sharon Hernandez; a son, Randy, and brother, Homer, and grand daughter, Sonya.

CANTON—Canton officials are studying a plan that would turn a 45-acre site behind its Administration Building on Canton Center Rd. into a multi-million dollar athletic complex.

The plans for the development were revealed by Michael Gouin, head of that community's parks and recreation department. Since the land for the proposed complex is already owned by the township, it could be eligible for federal funding.

Included on the park site, if the matching funds are proved, will be lighted softball diamonds, baseball diamonds for youths, soccer field, lighted tennis courts and other athletic facilities.

WAYNE—The Wayne-Westland Community School District board of Education has extended Supt. Timothy Dyer's contract for three more years.

Dyer, who has been superintendent of the Wayne-Westland Schools since 1973, is making in the vicinity of $56,000 per year. Dyer will continue to receive his current salary through the remainder of the 1980-81 school year when his contract will automatically be renewed on March 1.

After that date an 8 percent tax shelter will be set up in Dr. Dyer's name with the firm of his choice as an additional benefit.

WAYNE—In the midst of a revitalization program for the downtown area, Wayne has scheduled several key meetings to discuss a plan for the city offered by city planner Gerald Luedtke.

One of the first steps the city fathers of this city did was to create a Downtown Development Authority who is charged with over-seeing the $2,757,000 project.

However, some of the local residents, fearing that their homes would be the victims of the redevelopment program, turned up at the initial meeting of the Authority and protested. The program includes a $4000,000 item "that would acquire and demolish commercial structures and enlargement of parking areas."

One of the residents argued "that there is enough parking area in the city now. Please leave my home where it is."

INKSTER—Michigan's oil and gas royalties would be put to good use under a plan proposed by State Representative William R. Keith, (D-Inkster).

Under his proposed legislation, 50 percent of the royalties received from the state's oil and natural gas wells would be earmarked for education.

"In the advent of renewed drilling in the Pigeon River State Forest, I feel it best to set aside this revenue for our schools," Keith said. "Over the past several years local school districts have felt the economic crunch to the point where services have been curtailed and programs cancelled. Neither the state nor the individual taxpayer can readily afford to supplement local school budgets to offset revenue declines," added Keith.

"Encouraging projections are being made of increased oil and gas drilling, now that an agreement has been reached between petroleum and environmental interests. Earmarking half of these royalties would put those funds to work for the common good and without subjecting anyone to another tax burden," Keith concluded.

He says city owes county $840,000

TV's Bob McBride lashes out at city for non-payment of debt

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

For the second time in the past few months, the City of Romulus has been criticized in a Detroit television station editorial without city officials being contacted for a response to the charges.

A few months ago, newscaster Bill Bonds of Channel 7 rapped Romulus for being more than $1 million in arrears in payments to Wayne County. He did not give city officials a chance to respond with their side of the issue.

Last week, Bob McBride, station manager of WJBK-TV (TV2), aired an editorial three times in which he criticized Romulus for "owing $840,000 to Wayne County in back payments" for police protection. The editorial was aired on Channel 2 during the 11 p.m. newscast on Feb. 16 and also during noon and 6 p.m. newscasts on Feb. 17. McBride charged in his verbal opinion, "...taxpayers of Wayne County really are subsidizing police protection in both Romulus and Brownstown..."

City officials were perplexed and very concerned that McBride nor his staff took the time to get both sides of the issue before reading the editorial knocking Romulus.

Mayor William M. Oakley, who did not hear the editorial, was informed of it by many residents. He immediately contacted TV 2 and asked for a transcript of the editorial.

"It seems very unusual to me that a reputable television station would air an editorial without getting all the facts," Oakley said Friday. "All we ask is for Mr. McBride to be fair and objective and also present our side of the issue."

Oakley said several residents called and mentioned that McBride charged in his editorial that Romulus was in "violation of its city charter" by being in arrears in its payments to the county. However, a transcript of the editorial, entitled: "9006 Viewpoint" does not mention anything about violation of the city charter. "Some residents verified that he mentioned a violation of the city charter — maybe it was a mislibel into the editorial," Oakley said.

A verbatim account of the TV 2 editorial criticizing Romulus follows: "The Wayne County Commissioners and the unions of the Sheriff's Department struck a tentative agreement, but the controversy won't be settled until the matter goes back to court on May 19."

"But there's more to this than meets the eye: Of 44 Wayne County communities, only three don't have their own police departments. The City of Romulus, Brownstown and Plymouth Townships.

"In Romulus and Brownstown Township, police protection is provided by the Wayne County Sheriff. In fact, the taxpayers of Wayne County really are subsidizing police protection in both Romulus and Brownstown, because Romulus already owed Wayne County $840,000 in back payments.

"In earlier years their arrearage has gone as high as one million dollars but their protection never has stopped. Brownstown contracts for the service of only one sheriff deputy, but gets supplemental police services...all really underwritten by other communities taxes.

"Plymouth Township contracts and pays for its police protection. Because of Romulus and Brownstown, Wayne County taxpayers are being zapped again. Is it any wonder Wayne County is in such a mess...and debt?"

"This is just one more (sic) example of why Wayne County Government needs to be rebuilt from bottom to the very top. That's TV2's viewpoint. What do you think? I'm Bob McBride."

A copy of the written editorial was obtained by the Romulus Roman. It contained sloppy typing, misspelled words, poor punctuation and strike-overs on the three typed pages.

A pothole in your future?

The spring-like weather may be a welcomed delight to most of us, but it's taking a toll in the form of "mud-holes" and "potholes" on local, county and state highways. And that means it can also take a toll on your car if you're not careful. Above, David Paul, of the Wayne County Road Commission, directs road foreman Sherman Youtsey in filling up some of those problems. The perpetual pothole repair job, which usually reaches its peak in early spring, costs the American taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

'London fog'

Spring-like weather brings fog, mud and hazardous driving

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Unseasonably high temperatures and recurring fog turned most dirt and gravel roads in Romulus into muddy quagmires last week.

DPW Director David Paul said the roads mainly effected were in the southern end of the city between Eureka and Pennsylvania roads.

"The warm temperatures melted the frozen ground and released the moisture all at once," Paul said. "The dirt became mud and the recurring fog kept the sun from drying out the moisture."

"In addition, there was no wind to speak of to help blow away the moisture and dampness."

As a result, many roads in the southern end of the city were knee-deep in mud in many places and DPW crews were working 12 to 14 hours a day to keep the roads passable.

"The DPW crews are trying to keep all dirt roads passable," Paul said Friday. "We're having DPW crews haul slag out to the more seriously damaged roads."

The roads in worst shape, according to Paul, were Harrison, between Goddard and Eureka; Wahrman, between Eureka and Pennsylvania; Barth, between Goddard and Eureka; Wahrman, between Eureka and Pennsylvania; Barth, between Hannan and Huron River Drive; and Hannan Road, between Pennsylvania and Wade Street.

He further explained that the gravel part of Merriman Road, between Eureka and Pennsylvania, was also in terrible shape. "The large amount of moisture was turning all gravel and dirt streets into quagmires. We're having trouble on some parts of Hannan Road also."

Paul pointed out that Barth and Merriman have schools on them and must be kept in good condition for school buses and other vehicles to travel on.

"Wahrman and Harrison have businesses on them, so they are also high priority streets and we want to make sure they are kept open to traffic," Paul said.

"All the roads are a mess — all because of the weather conditions. It rained so much last week and the heavy fog kept the sun from drying out the moisture and there has been very little wind to speak of."

"We ask the residents to be patient — we're working 12 to 14 hours a day and on Saturdays to bring the roads to passable condition."

Last Friday afternoon Paul said he was contemplating using contracted trucks and drivers to help his regular DPW crews haul slag from the DPW yard to the worst areas. He said he hoped to have things under control by last Saturday night.

"Passable" was the key phrase in Paul's description.

"Of course we want to make the roads as good as possible, but it all depends on what kind of weather we have the next week or so. That's all very critical in our timetable to repair the roads and keep them in good condition," Paul said.

In neighboring Huron Township, there were reports Friday that many of the community's dirt and gravel roads were impassable because of moist conditions and trucks and school buses were traveling only on the main paved thoroughfares.

Fire Department and safety officials from communities all over Western Wayne County attended the seminar. With the increasing use of wood-burning stoves, fireplaces and chimneys, there has been a dramatic rise in the number of fire incidents and deaths due to their use in the past four years.

There were no civilian deaths related to wood-burning stoves, fireplaces and chimneys in the 1977-78 winter season. However, there were seven deaths in 1978: 79K, 18 in 1979-80 and Chief Wilhide reported there have already been 14 deaths this winter heating season.

"It was a very valuable seminar and we learned a great deal about wood-burning stoves and how people misuse them. I plan to issue a report to the people of Romulus soon on this subject," Wilhide said.

Others have received no pay since Feb. 1.

On top of all this, Local 502 of the National Union of Police Officers, which represents the patrol deputies, is scheduled to vote on the proposal and have indicated they agree with Local 1917 and will reject it for the following four reasons:

— It offers to keep the 242-member road patrol only until May 19.

— Locals 502 and 1917 have worked under terms of an expired contract without a pay raise for more than two years.

— On Feb. 13, more than 250 employees of the sheriff's office received no paychecks and others received only partial payment.

— Some county commissioners have attacked the unions and the sheriff through the news media.

our agreement with them will officially end on May 19."

"I recommend that the Council adopt an appropriate resolution," he stated.

Oakley also updated Council members on the progress of the Police Services Committee he formed several weeks ago with Council's approval.

"The committee has met on three occasions since being formed and has taken several steps toward the ultimate goal of assuring our citizen safety. Three sub-committees have been formed: equipment, advertising and site selection."

Oakley said that advertisements for police personnel appeared in last Sunday's Detroit News and Detroit Free Press and upcoming issues of Mellus and Associated weekly Newspapers.

"In addition," Oakley stated, "the Police, Fire and Safety Commission has been called upon to perform surveys of various surrounding communities to acquire important information about their police budgets, uniforms, etc.

"If there is one thing that has been learned by the committee in their meetings, discussions and surveys, it is that the establishment of a competent, professional police service is an extremely important, difficult, time-consuming and delicate process which is going to require patience, understanding and a tremendous amount of cooperation from our residents and government leaders," Oakley said.

Oakley also said he has been looking into the matter of acquiring a Police Chief if one is needed. "We want to contract with Wayne County for our police protection," he reiterated, "but at the same time we have to be ready to go with our own police force in the event we are not able to receive police protection from the county."

New reporter for Romulus, Sumpter

Bradley assigned to 'city beat'

Beginning with this issue, the general news reporting for Romulus and Sumpter Township will be handled by ANP Staff Writer Jim Bradley.

Bradley, who covered Romulus news from 1976 through 1978, returns to a familiar beat after serving as general news reporter in Canton Township the past 14 months.

"Jim is an experienced reporter who is known for his objectivity and fairness in his coverage of all news," ANP Managing Editor Tom Mooradian said this week.

While his coverage in Canton has been excellent and well received, Jim is a professional in every sense of the word and will give Romulus and Sumpter the same high quality of writing."

In being reassigned from Canton to Romulus, Bradley returns to a territory he is familiar with and one which welcomes his return.

Bradley has written for Associated Newspapers both as a news reporter and columnist for most of the past 15 years. His column, "On The Brighter Side," has been well received by a host of readers in ANP's circulation area who enjoy his humor and insight into life's daily routine.

However, with his busy schedule of news and sports reporting, he is not able to write his column as often as he would like.

Bradley graduated from Midwestern Baptist College, where he received a liberal arts education and earned a straight "A" grade average (4.0) while completing a 4-year course in three years.

He has enjoyed a varied career as a mail carrier, pastor of a local church, and a newspaper reporter and columnist since 1966. He was employed by Associated Newspapers from 1966-70 during which he was a featured weekly columnist as well as serving stints as the first editor of the Canton Eagle in 1969 and later as editor of the Wayne Eagle in 1970.

He wrote very little from 1970-75 during which time he served as pastor of Fair Haven Baptist Church in Westland. He returned to newspaper work in 1975 when he was a sports and general news reporter for the Livonia-based chain of Observer and Eccentric newspapers. Later that year he was named sports editor of the Observer papers.

Bradley returned to Associated Newspapers in Oct. 1976, covering Romulus, Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter.

Sheriffs do an 'about-face' on proposed pact

Wayne County Sheriff's deputies have apparently reversed their previous support of a tentative agreement reached earlier this month between them and the County Board of Commissioners which would temporarily halt elimination of about 250 of their jobs.

On Feb. 19, both the deputy unions which proposed terms announced that they are now opposed to the conditions of the agreement approved by the Board on Feb. 5, calling for less cost-of-living and overtime pay in return for keeping the Sheriff's Road Patrol intact through May 19.

The Board approved the agreement pending union ratification.

Despite the pact first being offered to the Board by the two unions jointly, Local 1517 formally rejected on Feb.

18 and their action was quickly endorsed by Local 502.

Local 1917 represents the sergeants and lieutenants chapter of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employees, and Local 502 the remainder of the deputies under the National Union of Police Officers.

In addition, Local 502 has scheduled a formal ratification meeting for Feb. 26, which is also the deadline set by the Board last week for ending discussions on the proposal.

Although both unions claim they turned against the proposal in part because of partial pay since Feb. 5 and the possibility of "completely pay-less pay-days" thereafter, Board Chairman Sameul A. Turner expressed surprise.

"It was their proposal to begin with, they brought it to us," he pointed out. "They also knew they would not be paid until they ratified it, and they know that any lost pay would be retroactive when they do ratify it."

Turner emphasized that, "We really don't want to lay anybody off, but if you must, you must." The Board eliminated the road patrol in the current budget, effective Feb. 1, but Sheriff William Lucas ordered deputies to continue working nevertheless, against instructions of the Board.

A court suit followed, with no conclusive decision, but is scheduled to resume before Circuit Court Judge Victor J. Baum on Dec. 27. In the meantime and except for court interference, said Turner, the deputies will continue without pay because they are officially have no jobs despite Lucas' contradicting order.

The unresolved pact is calculated to save about $1.7 million, or enough to maintain the road patrol as presently staffed until May 19. During the interim, under terms of the proposal, the Board and the deputies would continue negotiating for a longer-term solution.

Also during the Board meeting when they established the Feb. 26 deadline for further consideration of the proposal, the commissioners "passed for the day" a resolution which would require the Sheriff the post a $250,000 for satisfactory performance of duty. Passing for the day is legislative language meaning that the Board took no action, but can reconsider the matter at later meetings.

EARL BOST EDER

Former Belleville businessman

Bosteder services are held

A well-known Belleville businessman, who operated his variety store on Main Street for 40 years, died last Wednesday in Florida.

Services were held Friday for Earl Bosteder, 79, in Eustis, Fla. He and his wife spent their last six winters in Leesburg, Florida, where he suffered a stroke about a month before his death.

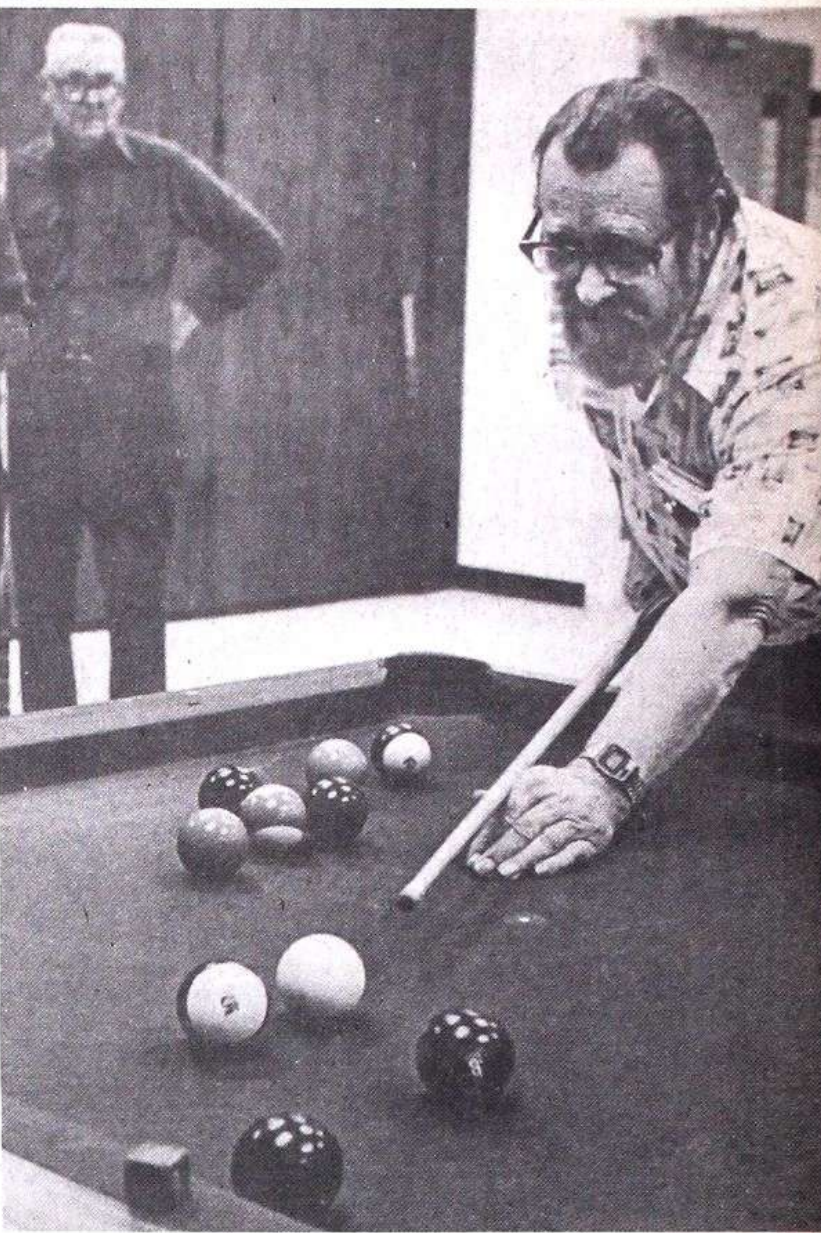

Known to many area people as

"Mr. B," he owned the Ben Franklin Five and Ten Cent Store at 504 Main Street in downtown Belleville and was a prominent figure in the local business community for more than 40 years.

He and his wife, Mildred, whom he married in 1940, made their residence on High Street since the early 1940s.

Survivors include his wife, Mildred; a daughter, Mrs. Danzel (Dorothy) Day, and a grandson, Jerry Day of Illinois; a brother, Clifford, of Iowa, a sister, Mrs. Louis (Sarah) Canadare of California, and two nephews.

Mr. Bosteder sold the Ben Franklin store about four years ago when he retired.

Firing line

The weather may be horrendous outside, but who cares? After all there's a lot to do indoors as many of the Van Buren Township senior citizens have discovered. Above, Belleville's Vince Goodnuff lines up his shot during a friendly game of pool while friends stand by and kibitz. Pool is one of many activities provided by and sponsored by the township's parks and recreation department. For more information about recreation events telephone 699-2001.

State cuts gas use 11 percent

Michigan motorists ranked among the nation's leaders in gasoline conservation in 1980 by cutting gas use 11 percent, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Motorists in Michigan used approximately 4.25 billion gallons of gasoline last year, the lowest level in 10 years and 26 percent behind the record consumption year in 1978," stated Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

According to the Federal Highway Administration's most recent figures (through October), Michigan ranked second in reducing gasoline use with a 10.7 percent cut compared with a 10.9 percent drop in Arkansas.

Hawaii was the only state showing an increase (5.7 percent) in gas use for the first 10 months.

This is the second straight year that motorists in Michigan have voluntarily cut their driving. Higher gas prices, which have nearly doubled between January 1979 and January 1981, and more fuel-efficient automobiles are major reasons for the change in driving habits, Ratke said.

"Michigan motorists should be commended for being 'Gas Watchers' and not wasting fuel even when supplies are at record levels," he added.

Auto Club's "Gas Watchers" program teaches motorists to save fuel through good driving habits and still have gas to spare for vacations and weekend trips.

Pets & Animals

Winter heat

Winter heat, with low humidity in the air, will cause many cats and dogs to develop dry skin conditions. Animals with short, dark hair will have white flakes apparent on their hair coat, while longer haired animals will have the flakes held close to the skin.

It is often the complaint of owners that their animal has dandruff and they would like a remedy to this unsightly flaking.

It may be helpful to increase the fatty acids in the diet by the use of vitamins or pure corn oil on a regular basis. Corn oil is easily digested and will not coat the intestinal tract, decreasing absorption, as other oils will.

One-half to two tablespoons may be added to the animal's food two or three times each week. Adding small amounts of bacon grease to the diet may also help the animal's hair coat.

Some dogs do react to the bacon grease that can cause a vomiting and diarrhea, in which case the supplementation should be discontinued.

A humidifier will help add moisture to the dry air produced by your furnace. However, if your pet enjoys laying near a register as it blows out warm air, your pet will still have a dry hair coat.

Pet shampoos can be harsh on the animal's skin and hair coat. Mild shampoos and cream rinses that are used for humans may also be used to bath your animal. Using a cream rinse on your pet may add luster to its hair coat and moisture to its skin. After bathing, do not allow your pet to go outside until it has a thoroughly dry hair coat.

If the white flaking is a mild case, the owner may not wish to do anything about the problem and occasionally there is nothing that will help the flakes. When flaking becomes a severe problem the owner may have to add a human oil, alpha-keri, to the hair coat.

This is done by diluting ten parts of water with one part alpha-keri and spraying it on the animal. If this concentration makes the hair coat too oily, try diluting the alpha-keri twenty parts water to one part oil.

Any animal with a severe, persistent problem of dander should be examined by a veterinarian to be sure that there is no disease process involved. Usually with the sunshine and warm, humid air of summer the flaking disappears, only to come back the next winter.

Solar energy arrives in area

The sun literally warms up the Halcomb family in Belleville as they are among the first to utilize solar energy to heat up their home. With fuel bills skyrocketing, more and more people are seeking alternative means for home fuel. On Saturday, the Halcombs will host an "Open House" to show just how the "thermo-siphoning system" works.

'Open house' is planned

Sun will help heat up Halcomb home in Belleville

A solar energy open house will be held at the Halcomb residence, 22645 Karr in Belleville, east of Rawsonville and south of Willis Rs. on Sat., Feb. 28.

The working solar system on display is a unique wall mounted collector known as a thermo-siphoning air panel — TAP for short. The vertical collector takes advantage of the principle of hot air convection; heated air rises to the top of the collector and exits naturally. From there, a small thermostatically controlled fan moves the air through a system of ducts to the living area.

On a sunny winter day, the solar system can sustain indoor temperatures at comfortable levels by itself for 8 to 12 hours.

"On the first few cold days of December, the system was putting out enough heat to keep us at about 70 to 75 in here," Halcomb said. "Even when it really got cold, to about 0 or 10 above, the unit was putting out quite a bit of heat because of light reflecting off snow on the ground."

A major appeal of the TAP is its simplicity. There is only one moving part to the collector, and room air is heated directly in the collector instead of having to go through a heat exchanger. Such simplicity also means lower maintenance and lower initial cost. The solar system installed cost the Halcombs $1850. Tax credits reduced the cost by another 60%. (The federal government allows a 40% tax credit on solar systems, and the state allows a 20% tax credit) so this $1850 system will end up costing the Halcombs only $740, when they file their taxes in April.

The manufacturer of the collector, Suntemp Energy Systems of Plymouth, estimates that the Halcombs will reduce their heating bills by 25 to 30% because of the solar panels, and that if the prices of heating fuels continue to rise according to inflationary trends, the system will pay for itself in just a few years.

Also on display at the Feb. 28 open house will be Window Quilts, a novel sort of window insulating shades which open and close with a draw string like a regular shade, but which automatically seal on all four sides of the window.

The Solar Energy Open House is being presented by Suntemp Energy Systems. More information on the solar system or the Open House can be had by calling 453-4590.

The Open House will be free of charge and open to the public. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

State Rep. Mahalak backs emergency prison powers act

A new state law seeks a solution to the dangerous problem of overcrowded state prisons.

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak of Romulus supports the law and claims it provides an alternative to court intervention in the state correctional system.

"It is known as the Prison Overcrowding Emergency Powers Act," Mahalak said, "and gives the governor emergency powers to reduce sentences and order the release of certain prisoners in the event of a prison overcrowding crisis."

Under the law, the Michigan Corrections Commission would have to ask the governor to declare a state of emergency if prison capacity exceeded the prison's rated design population for 30 consecutive days. (Rated design means the actual available bedspace in the prison system as certified by the Corrections Commission, subject to federal and state laws and rules).

Once the state of emergency had been declared, the following steps would have to be taken:

- The minimum sentences of all prisoners with established minimum sentences would have to be reduced by 90 days.
- If this action fails to reduce the prison population to 95 percent of rated design capacity within 90 days, the minimum sentences would be reduced by another 90 days.
- In addition," Mahalak said, "after the effective date of the law, all new inmate housing or facilities purchased, leased, constructed or converted by the Department of Corrections could have only single occupancy rooms or cells."
- The housing would have to comply with federal and state laws and rules. Moreover, after Jan. 1, 1984, the rated design capacity of the Michigan prison system could not include trailers or modular units or bedspace not designed for prisoner housing. Mahalak said the legislation was recommended last year by the Joint Legislative-Executive Task Force on Prison Overcrowding.

The task force report stated:

"Under current law, the Department of Corrections is required to accept for incarceration all persons sentenced to prison by circuit and records court judges.

"Since 1975, Michigan's prisons have been continuously overcrowded by as many as 2,000 prisoners over the system's rated capacity. As a result of this population pressure, the Department of Corrections has been forced to house prisoners in areas not designed for housing, such as recreation and treatment areas and garages. This restricts the availability of rehabilitative and diversionary activities and only serves to aggravate the normally high tension levels found in an institutional environment."

The report stated that living conditions create a situation that invite judicial intervention — a situation occurring on a large scale across the country. In fact, as of April 1, 1980, 19 states were operating their prison systems under court order, and 13 others were facing litigation on the conditions of confinement.

In Michigan, current prison facilities are overpopulated by more than 1,000 inmates and there are lawsuits at a point where they could soon enter federal courts where new facilities or reduced population could be ordered by the courts, Mahalak said.

"Virtually all of this judicial action in other states has occurred since 1974," the report continued. "A federal court order generally establishes the acceptable conditions that must be met within a state within a certain length of time, regardless of the costs involved or the ability of the state to meet those costs."

"A second implication of an overcrowded prison system, perhaps the most dangerous and costly, is that of prison riots and disruptions. Since Jan. 1, 1980, there has been a major prison riot and a series of minor prison disruptions across the nation."

"Although, with the exception of the New Mexico riot, they have not been relatively serious, they do indicate the prevailing mood of the prison population in this country, unrest."

"It is the result of this unrest, in terms of human suffering as well as dollars and cents, that a humane society must take every possible step to avoid."

Mahalak said that the new law provides a much-needed alternative to court intervention in the State correctional system which already has occurred to a limited degree.

A family with a mission

Although the Dan Greer family resides in Westland, the members of the family will travel to all ends of the earth to carry the message of God.

That's what Dan and his wife, along with their four children: Lori, 21, Danny, 20, Lynda, 16, and Doug, 12, have in their hearts. And they'll be performing on Thursday at the Faith United Methodist Church in Denton at 7:30 p.m.

The musical recital follows a potluck supper which will get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Dan's musical career started early when at the age of four he entered the Detroit Conservatory of Music in Detroit as a piano student. He became interested in the organ in his early teen years and practiced many hours on the organ at the Lennon Methodist Church where his father was the pastor.

He was organist at the Denton Methodist Church from 1958 until 1960 when Rev. Sherman Richards was the pastor. He has been the organist at the First Baptist Church of Wayne for fifteen years.

He has been employed as a music instructor in the public schools for the past 21 years. Dan has broadened his talent into the professional field of sports. He was formerly the organist for the Detroit Pistons' Basketball team and is currently the official organist for the Detroit Tiger Baseball team and the Detroit Red Wing Hockey team.

Joan is a Personnel Records Clerk at the Automobile Club of Michigan in Dearborn. She enjoys arts and crafts of all kinds and home interior decorating.

Local church to support worldwide radio program

The Belleville Seventh-Day Adventist Church will play a supportive role in increasing denominational programming on radio stations worldwide, the members will be told this week.

Methods under consideration include exploration for denominationally owned satellite possibilities, plus buying time whenever and wherever feasible.

A Royce Snyman, the pastor, said: "Programs produced by Adventist World Radio (AWR) are heard now in 10 languages throughout Asia and 19 languages across Europe, but church leaders aren't stopping there."

Negotiations to air more Adventist programs in the Far East are in progress and areas where nothing is being aired now are high on the denomination's priority list, the pastor added.

"The world office in Washington, D.C., has set aside $200,000 to assist in reaching these goals," Snyman said. An additional $100,000 is expected to come from random donations.

Giving through the annual Mission Extension offering and one of the quarterly Sabbath school offerings may speed up the project as local congregations are asked to "kick in" financially.

Other areas of support could include the sending of a radio-slanted publication to a mailing list within the church and the promotion of AWR by Adventist Laymen Services and Industries (ASI) - a businessmen's lay organization.

The Voice of Prophecy is heard at 8 A.M. Sunday on WSDS 1480. Though sponsored now by the church, the Voice of Prophecy started as an independent broadcast out of Long Beach, California, 50 years ago.

THE COMPLETE TEXT OF "THE LIVING WILL"

To my family, my physician, my lawyer and all others whom it may concern:

Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity, and old age — it is the one certainty of life. If the time comes when I can no longer take part in decisions for my own future, let this statement stand as an expression of my wishes and directions, while I am still sound of mind.

If at such a time the situation should arise in where there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from extreme physical or mental disability, I direct that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by medications, artificial means, or "heroic measures." I do, however, ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may shorten my remaining life.

This statement is made after careful consideration and is in accordance with my strong convictions and beliefs. I want the wishes and directions here expressed carried out to the extent permitted by law. Insofar as they are not legally enforceable, I hope that those to whom this Will is addressed will regard themselves as morally bound by these provisions.

'Luck of the draw?'

Natural prep cage opponents to clash in district playoffs

It may be the 'luck of the draw', then again it may not be.

But, either way, high school basketball fans are in for a real treat, in fact, three of them, as Monday's district tournament drawings pitted three natural area rivals against each other.

A case in point, Belleville, which has little love for neighboring Ypsilanti when it comes to athletic competition, will open up the Class A district playoffs on Monday against — guess who? — that's right, Ypsilanti.

And Plymouth Canton, who has played under the shadows of "big brother", Salem, and who only a year ago surprised Coach Fred Thomann's Rocks by ousting them from the playoffs, drew — guess who? — that's right, Salem.

And Robichaud, a long-time natural foe of Inkster's, has none other than Inkster to contend with in the second round

South swim team proves it's No. 1

If there is a finer junior high swim team than Belleville South, it hasn't emerged thus far this season.

Coach John Sostock's tankers breezed past Pierce Junior High of Redford, 102-53, and trounced Northville Meade Mills 63-19 to tune up for the Junior High Diving & Swimming Invitational.

"We have excellent depth," said the South coach, "and I've never coached a harder-working bunch of kids. They really get the job done."

South got the job done with little sweat against the Northville swimmers, sweeping nine of the 11 events with Chris Whitt, Ben Griffith and Greg Traskos each posting double victories.

Romulus and Coach Al Wilkerson

Who's afraid of the Braves?

Although their Tigers have had their problems on the basketball courts these days, Belleville cheerleaders Cherri Butzin (at left) and Cathy Seay have drummed up support for their team. And they'll have to do that Monday night when Coach Tom Niemi's club will be

Coach Wilkerson: 'I'm satisfied with the draw'

Romulus coach Al Wilkerson isn't complaining about the playoff draw which will pit his Eagles against a Temperance Bedford quintet in the semi-final round of the Class A district basketball playoffs next week at Ypsilanti High.

In fact, Coach Wilkerson is pleased.

"To tell you the truth it's just the way we wanted it," Wilkerson said. "We've had our share of problems, but so has Temperance. However, let's make this thing clear — their 5-13 record is very deceptive."

"Four of their losses were to ranked teams in the state of Ohio and, believe me, we're going to have our hand full against them."

If the Eagles survive Wednesday's (March 4) encounter with Bedford, they will advance to the championship round to take on the winner of the Belleville-Ypsilanti game.

In the meantime, Romulus had more than its share of problems last Friday at Oak Park where 6-8 center-forward Ed Jones put on a one-man show against them.

Jones, who has been with the Parkers only for the past two weeks, tossed in 24 points to lead Oak Park to a 73-67 victory, their 13th win in 19 tries.

Romulus played in spurts, making up a 10-point third period deficit only to watch the Parkers pull away by eight in the waning minutes of the game.

Three juniors — Troy Gray, Bobby Stewart and Patrick Bell — paced the Eagles' offense. Gray led his team with 19 points, while Stewart and Bell each had 16.

Romulus was to wrap up the 1981 regular season Tuesday night, picking on Huron Conference representative, Monroe Catholic Central. The Eagles are 4-13 on the season.

jump into the shooting at Ypsilanti on Tuesday (March 4) against Bedford in a 7 p.m. tilt which precedes the 8:30 match-up between Monroe and the winner of the Belleville-Ypsilanti confrontation.

The championship at Ypsilanti will be decided at 7:30 p.m., Friday, March 6. The winner of the Ypsilanti district will remain there to play for the regional championship.

In the meantime over at Salem, Thomann and the Rocks will be seeking revenge beginning at 7:30 p.m., Tues., March 3. Both teams have winning records and, although knocked out of their respective league title races, are as good as any teams in the county.

On Thurs., March 4, also at Salem, Westland John Glenn and Coach Dan Henry have to face Garden City East, a

A classic

A classic in its own right, the premiere competition in handicapper sports in shaping up to be the best yet.

The 33rd National Wheelchair Basketball Tournament (NWBT) will pit the best four wheelchair basketball teams in the nation against each other in a weekend tournament, set for April 3-4, in Westland. The city's John Glenn High School will be the site of the 4-game semi-final and finals, which will include a consolation match between the two losing teams.

Paired with a national meeting of the National Wheelchair Basketball Association, tournament organizers anticipate a standing room only crowd for the basketball classic.

team the Westlanders have beaten in league play (Northwest Suburban) this season. The winner of that game will advance to Saturday's (March 6) championship round. However, they will have to await the outcome of the semi-finals between Wayne and the winner of the Salem-Canton contest.

Wayne plays the second game (7:15) match on Thurs., March 4.

The championship is a 1:30 p.m. Saturday, March 6 confrontation.

Garden City West will make its Class B debut at Robichaud on Monday, March 2, clashing with Dearborn Divine Child in the first of two games at 6:30 p.m. At 8:30 p.m., the same night, Allen Park tangles with Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

Inkster and Robichaud square off at 7:30 p.m., Tues., March 3. The Vikings have the edge in the series. Coach Spencer Grant's quintet has narrowly defeated Robichaud twice in the Suburban Athletic Conference this year but the third encounter will determine which team will play the winner of the Allen Park-Crestwood game.

The defending Class B district champ, Cherry Hill, will be waiting on the sidelines to view the action. Coach Dave Bogataj's Spartans, who boast a 14-4 won-lost record and the Tri-River Conference champs, play the winner of the West-Divine Child game on Wednesday, March 4 at 7:30 p.m.

The championship at Robichaud is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Saturday, March 7.

There is a $1.50 admission charge each night of a district contests.

CLEANING OF BRACED TEETH

A dentist puts braces on a child's teeth to straighten them or correct dental handicaps. But braces make teeth harder to clean, can act as food traps and thus increase the chance of tooth decay. But this can easily be overcome. One of the best methods of cleaning debris from braced teeth is the oral irrigator — an electric device which directs a pulsating stream of water onto the teeth.

Dental researchers at Loyola University tested this premise. Braced youngsters were divided into two equal groups. The first brushed their teeth after each meal, then used an oral irrigator once a day. The second group also brushed but followed with a simple rinsing.

After nine weeks, group one (the irrigators) showed an 80% reduction in total bacteria. In contrast, the group of rinsers had only an insignificant drop in bacterial count. The result indicate that if the irrigator cleaning process is combined with brushing, proper diet, and frequent examinations, a child can have straight teeth without the penalty of additional cavities.

PCHA picks new medical chief

The new medical chief of staff at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne is Assodolah Abbrassian, M.D., elected to the top staff position by his peers on the medical staff in recent elections.

A resident of Dearborn Heights, Dr. Abbrassian has practiced medicine in Garden City for 15 years. He is a surgeon in the field of urology, and is a long-time staff member at Annapolis. Prior to his election as chief of staff, Dr. Abbrassian was vice-chief of staff for two years.

In this new leadership position, Dr. Abbrassian has the responsibility of presiding at all meetings of the medical staff and its executive committee, and is responsible for the proper functioning and supervision of the clinical organization and work within the hospital.

He was elected to a 2-year term, replacing Joseph Sadzikowski, M.D., who just completed two years as chief of staff. In the position of past chief, Dr. Sadzikowski will remain on the executive committee of the Annapolis Hospital medical staff. His office also is located in Garden City.

Several other leadership positions on the hospital medical staff were also filled at the recently held elections.

Chosen as vice-chief of staff was Vi-jayecoomar Godurdhun, M.D., of Plymouth, and Joseph J. Richert, D.O., of New Boston, as secretary-treasurer.

They, too, will sit on the executive committee, along with the two members-at-large, newly-elected Elmer A. Goerke, M.D., whose office is located in Romulus, and John E. Franklin, M.D., of Inkster, who is in the middle of his term.

Each department within the hospital also has a chief, who is accountable for professional and administrative activities within his own department and also sits on the executive committee.

Elected recently as chief of family practice was Kenneth W. Carman, M.D., of Garden City; as chief of medicine was K. P. Anand, M.D., of Westland; as chief of pediatrics was B. L. N. Raju, M.D., of Inkster; as chief of radiology was Morton Cash, M.D.; and as chief of pathology was Radrigo Diaz-Perez, M.D.

Two other members of the executive committee of the Annapolis Hospital Medical Staff who are in mid-term are chief of obstetrics Rene O. Santiago, M.D., and chief of surgery Roy W. Matthews Jr., M.D.

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Vacation for the Smiths have not always been planned in advance, with reservations and confirmations and with care but we have learned from experience over the past several years that that's the way you do it, pal!

Having usually just sort of meandered around (if it was an on-the-road type junket) and just played it to fit the mood, we sometimes found ourselves eating in nice-looking but food-crummy restaurants, having to take what was left in motels and missing out on activities because we'd NOT pre-planned.

But — the year we decided on Disney World (1972), we knew we weren't going to just "drop in." So it was in August of that year we made our reservations for a 3-day guest shot there the following Easter vacation — eight months in advance! And it was sheer delight to pull into that complex, knowing full well we had our rooms booked and confirmed and our route plotted out (we "did" Disney World like professionals), the end results being complete and unbelievably satisfying.

That was just the advent of "doing it right" and, learning from that pleasant experience, we've since proceeded along that same route. Now we write ahead requesting brochures and information, pen requests or call restaurant critics for advice, set up air flights well in advance and book ahead.

Sounds great and pretty down pat, doesn't it? Well (as our esteemed new President is wont to say) it doesn't always work that way. Thankfully our transportation and lodging had no hitches, but that tourist bureau I wrote to in Tucson and that dining editor I called at the big paper both fell by the wayside. The leaflets and info on Tucson were here waiting for us when we arrived home and the writers I called in that city worked out of their homes and were not available. Being transferred to the editor of the paper's Weekender tab SHOULD have been a help but, I swear, it sounded like the man never set foot in a Tucson-area eatery.

But, as luck would have it (and as a tip for all of you who're planning a trip), we decided to call on the Chamber of Commerce in Green Valley (mid-way between Tucson and Nogales, Mexico where we were "casita-ed"). And that was one of the best stops we ever made. The lovely lady (a transplant retiree from Minnesota and a C. of C. volunteer) who greeted us at the door turned out to be a veritable storehouse of information. We couldn't believe she wasn't a native. She LOVED Arizona and could have sold desert wasteland to Jacques Cousteau. Every place and everything she recommended which we followed up were as "marvelous, exciting, delightful, delicious and beautiful" as she extolled.

Her tips found us checking out a fascinating Tubac Art Festival; the Madera Canyon and a small lodge tucked away for mountain-view dining; the copper mines; an off-beat Mexican eatery in Nogales (Alvira's) where the "cabrilla" (sea bass) was as superb as the host was exuberant; the San Xavier Mission, 183 years rich in history; and a super spot, Lunt Ave. Marble Club in Tucson, where the uniquely prepared and served food and drink were worth every second of our 45-minute wait.

We managed to find the golf courses all by ourselves and were teamed up with some pretty nice people, some, tourists like us, others, new additions to Arizona's population.

The whole gist of this bit is that if you find yourself in unfamiliar territory and don't care to greasy-spoon or tourist-trap it, then a good bet is a visit to the local Chamber of Commerce.

Finding a Henry Denker novel sandwiched in among the new arrivals at the local library was like seeing the first robin of the year (pre-seasonally skittering about in the slush — you knew you had something more to look forward to).

Hadn't thought about H.D. in a long while but was delighted to know he was still penning his stuff — good stuff, to boot. Recalling an excellent "Schofield Diagnosis" and "The Experiment," I was somewhat taken aback at the subject matter for his latest, "Horowitz and Mrs. Washington."

Taking an everyday occurrence in today's world — a nugging — and coupling it with a stroke (cerebral thrombosis) only moments after, Denker makes Samuel Horowitz's subsequent reactions and behavior the foundation for his story.

At 70 years of age, Horowitz, a cantankerous widower with children in other parts of the country, is not only stubborn and set in his ways but full of prejudice which is brought to a boiling point when his face is slashed by a black youth.

And — adding insult to injury is the attorney son's choice of housekeeper-therapist for his father — a Negro, Mrs. Washington.

How the two match wits, eventually come to understand and befriend each other and work determinedly to outsmart Horowitz's know-it-all, domineering daughter, makes for a refreshing, poignant and amusing tale. It also gives the reader a better understanding of how a stroke victim must cope and how those involved with him must learn to adapt.

A thought-provoking but entertaining tale, "H. & M.W." has no deep, involved plot, no mystery or intrigue, no moonlight and roses — it's just plain good reading. You might want to find those aforementioned Denker books, too. They DO have involvement, suspense and a different tack.

Having mentioned that proverbial red-breasted creature which can make our eyes light up during this most drab of months, we have our first report on a "spotting" which occurred Monday, Feb. 16.

On a day smothered with fog and scarred with the aftermath of that recent mid-winter storm, the sighting call came from Daughter No. 2 in Ann Arbor town. And Sue and I have to agree, that had to be one nutty robin!

Gee, I almost forgot the recipe collector crowd, the segment I hear from mostly. I've a hot tip to give them, direct from South of the Border and the result of eavesdropping on a conversation at the next table.

We were at La Caverna (Nogales' most famous eating spot, a series of caves softly lighted by table lamps) when I heard a gal explaining a "quick and easy" hors d'oeuvre to her dining companion.

Had it all down in my head but figured I wouldn't chance getting it wrong so got the teller's attention, admitted I was listening and asked her once again to repeat the ingredients.

Open a bag of Doritos and spread them out on a cookie sheet, she instructed. Drop bits of refried beans over top of chips and follow with shredded cheddar cheese. Then drizzle a can of taco sauce over all and place beneath a broiler until cheese is nicely melted.

Now understand, I've not tried this as yet. That's the way she gave it to me and you're on your own if you've a hankerin' for some Mexican snack stuff. (Sounds good, doesn't it?)

THE BOTTOM LINE: There's only one person who can do more harm than an enemy with the worst intentions and that's a friend with the best.

Just in passing

Those TV commercials really turn me off!

By KAY DeBORD

When you're in a weakened condition — such as I was while home recuperating from a much-too-frequently-discussed ailment, I found myself more than usually sensitive to a number of "little" things that I generally ignore.

Chief among the things that got to me were television commercials.

At more normal times, I can ignore these or dismiss them from my mind, but somehow the ones that came to my attention really irked me!

First of all — there's the guy that by the punch and prod method determines that his wife is sleeping — and proceeds to wake her up because HE can't sleep with a stuffy nose or a scratchy throat.

I'd like to KICK his wife — because instead of sitting wide awake, playing solitaire now that she can't sleep — she should be planning tortures for the jerk — instead of giving him a doting, maternal glance.

Add to that the crumb suffering from insomnia who brings on the lights at his neighbor's home by means of a phone call — just to find out what his neighbor takes when HE can't sleep.

I would suggest a mallet applied to the skull if I were the neighbor awakened!

Then there are the "nosies" playing peek in the bathroom to see what toothpaste your kids are brushing their "pearlies" with.

Instead of explaining, I would shut the bathroom door in their faces!

And did you ever notice that on all these beer outings — whether it's a clambake on the beach, the end of a long day of sailing or out in the boondocks — the beer is always served in nice clear crystal glasses? Who totes breakable drinking glasses on picnics anyway?

Also, how about that macho guy that comes off his ship toting a bottle of Old Spice aftershave? How many men do you know run around with a jug of aftershave clutched in their hands?!

High on my list of commercials that irritate me are the ones that totally ignore the fact that someone has come in to buy a specific item that they are obviously familiar with — only to have all its contents and virtues detailed — and detailed.

I won't even go into those commercials extolling "personal" items — it's too much for my blood pressure!

I also don't care much for these gals who scrub floors and still wind up looking like the Queen is coming to tea. Or those who swish their hair around. I don't know many people who go around "swishing" their hair — and if and when they do — it's in the privacy of their own home.

And I wish a lot of people who think it's chic to groom their hair in public would also limit their activity to the bedroom or bath. It's getting to be a hairy world in more ways than one!

Also, yuk! The spaghetti sauce tasters who sample from the spoon that is then replaced in the cooking pot. How hot is that spaghetti sauce anyway? Hot enough to kill germs?

There are tasteful commercials that get my plaudits — such as Pepsi and Coca Cola — Kraft foods, Eastern Airlines and other travel commercials, so I'm not impossible to please.

It's just that I want commercial makers and their companies to treat people like they had just a little intelligence!

How about you?

Mayor's surprise opens door to new challenges

Westland Mayor Tom Taylor isn't a person who pulls very many surprises, but he caught most of his colleagues and the Press by surprise when he said he would not seek re-election this fall.

Taylor, who has brought stability to a government that was knee-deep in controversy, told his audience that six years was enough and that his future was tied to municipal consulting and cable TV. And he did this to clear the air, on the eve of an election that would decide the fate of cable TV in Westland.

No matter how the vote went, Taylor said his era as mayor would be ended this year. It is commendable for the mayor to make these revelations now so that those seeking that office can prepare themselves for the battles that inevitably lie ahead.

There are some real challenges in all communities, and especially in Westland. The city has great potential, and that potential should, and must, be developed during a time when there is an over-abundance of cynicism and frustration over our elected officials and the job they are doing.

And no matter how the cable TV vote goes, there is still a problem of reunifying the forces that are obviously split on this issue.

We hope that the challenges of running Westland will be accepted by those who can dramatically cut through the lines that appear to have separated parts of this community.

An applause for high school athletes

It's refreshing during a time of mass unemployment and inflation and the other hundreds of ills that plague mankind to pause and enjoy the enthusiasm displayed by high school athletes.

And there is especially one fine group of young athletes and their coach we would like to single out for praise. That group is Belleville High's wrestling team and their coach, Jerry Malecek.

Belleville wrestlers won their league, their district and their regional championships and on Friday will march to neighboring Ann Arbor to compete for the coveted Class A state title. Although they may have a shot at the state title, realistically the odds-on-favorite is Davison, ranked the No. 1 team in the state.

Davison also managed to qualify four wrestlers, all of whom are defending state champs, for the finals. They - and not Temperance Bedford - are the defending Class A champ.

So Malecek and his Tigers have their work cut out for them, and if they should pull the upset off, it would be something short of a miracle.

Win or lose - people like Malecek and his wrestlers are winners. They, like their hundreds of counterparts across the state, share their athletic ability to help promote themselves and their communities.

And we'd like to offer our congratulations and wish them and all the rest of the area qualifiers for state - the best of luck.

Go get them Tigers.

Guest viewpoint

Local governments, schools misleading taxpayers on PA 114

I believe the local government and school district resolutions regarding Public Act 114 may mislead the taxpayers.

The use of 31 percent increases and 26 percent increases in stating the effect PA 114 will have upon a tax bill is erroneous. The 31 percent and the 26 percent increases include the normal economic effect of inflation, high market value and low local assessments.

The factor increase for Wayne of 15.92, Westland of 16.09, Canton of 14.00 and Plymouth of 17.10 (the taxing units in my representative district) will remain in effect even if we are successful in delaying, phasing in, or abolishing Public Act 114 of 1979.

This equalization process has been in effect since the implementation of the Constitution of 1963 which was adopted by the voters in an election held April 1, 1963, with an effective date of January 1, 1964. The equalization of tax assessments portion became effective January 1, 1966.

I believe both Wayne and Westland had a factor of 1 at that time which indicated proper local assessments in tax year 1967. The factor has risen each year which indicates that house assessments have not kept pace with the marketplace.

Now, in 1981, the timing of the change to equalization by class is proving to be inappropriate because of the high equalization factor due, in part, to the highest market values in history determined by residential sales of the last three years.

If equalization by class, including the new class "developmental", had been instituted as of January 1, 1966, we would have a more equal taxation policy across this state. I believe all vacant property not in use for one of the other classes: agriculture, industry, commercial, residential or timber cutover, should be in the "developmental" class.

Therefore, the multiple sales of this type of property in any given 3-year period would not be affecting the market values of any of the other classes, specifically the residential.

I understand that the majority of the local assessors consider vacant property residential in class until it is definitely in a specific use such as industrial, commercial, residential or agriculture.

I believe that assessors should be sufficiently staffed and capable of assessing any and all properties in their assessing unit. I do not believe that totally proper assessing is carried out in any of the assessing units of this state for the reason that it is not politically advisable to be responsible for assessments on a person's property.

It is a lot easier and more acceptable to be accorded a way out by placing the blame for high taxes on someone else, but having the privilege of spreading the highest allowable millage against the state equalized value of the city, school district, county or community college.

Doing this without regard to the ability of the taxpayer to pay is highly irresponsible on the part of local units of government.

If the local school district, city, township, county, community college or any local tax supported unit did wholly disagree with the state equalized value and agreed to the local assessing practices, then they should have and should now reduce their millage to reflect the lower local assessment.

If the local assessment of a house is $6,000 and the state equalized is $12,000, the local unit should reduce their millage to 50% of the allowable spread to reflect their true feelings of fair taxation.

However, it has been the practice, and from all indications will continue to be the practice, of local units of government to use the constitutionally demanded statewide equalization they claim they do not support.

I know Jane Ross would be embarrassed if she were alive to read this, because this is one of my rare tributes to a person who earned more than her share of by-lines.

Today is Tuesday, the day she usually rushed into this office and handed me her column, and her eyes always seem to say: "Well, how are you going to foul it up this time?"

Today is Tuesday — and I still expect her to come through that door of mine, with that ominous brown cigarette in one hand and a bundle of other copy in the other.

But, Jane Ross won't make her appearance today or any other day. She succumbed to a fatal heart attack, and her large cadre of full-time readers are shocked. They keep haunting this place.

Jane, to use an adjective she over-abundantly used, was "beautiful." Not in the physical sense. But she was a person who would go out of her way to do something for you. She was never discouraged, even when her premiere project, a new charter for the city of Inkster, failed to gain voter support.

Jane — she was never one who would tolerate prejudices — earned the respect of both the black and white community in a community where there was definitely at one time a deep schism between the races.

She knew everyone and anyone who was seeking or had obtained a political job. Oh, yes, she had enemies, but even her enemies respected her for they knew that she had the power "to hustle votes" and without votes a politician is without power.

And she knew people.

When Ted Kennedy Jr. substituted for his uncle, Ted, on the campaign trail during the Democratic primaries, Jane was assigned to cover the story in Romulus.

She arrived at the hall and discovered one of our photographers did not have the right security credentials, which would enable him to get into the building.

Jane walked up to the FBI agent and said: "Young man, this man is with me." And would you believe that on her words alone the ANP photographer was able to cover the event.

Later that year in New York, Ted Jr. came through for our columnist again. Jane asked young Ted for a personal interview with his uncle and, on the night of that now famous speech, Ted Kennedy agreed and our Jane found herself in the very apartment where Ted and his staff were preparing that national speech which would capture the hearts of millions of Americans.

That was our Jane Ross.

But she was more. She was a wife, a mother and a devoted grandmother. How she found time to cover the myriad of events that went on is way beyond us. She was the first on the line with the information of a breaking story; she was a friend one could rely on; and her high spirits kept the newsroom going when times "were slow."

Each Thursday she would bisect and dissect the newspaper with "you should have done this; or you're really off base here."

Jane is going to be missed.

She was just a beautiful person.

Here's a eulogy for Herman

Herman is dead and I'm not sorry.

Herman, much as I hate to speak against the dead (that is, if he really is dead; there are some doubts...), was a disgusting, gluttonous blob of yuck who demanded (and got) more time, more space and more feeding than any one person in our entire household.

For weeks I fed him, nurtured him, whipped him into shape — and what thanks did I get? None.

Oh, every week-and-a-half or so, Herman would present us with goodies so delicious it almost made his intrusion worthwhile. Almost.

Because even then we ended up doing all the work and paying for it, besides.

Who would have thought, when we took Herman in, that we would have to spend our entire lives devoted to his care and feeding. It was like having a bottlefed baby. We didn't dare leave the house for even one day.

Even on the day we were to get our goody — our reward — we had to spend endless amounts of time helping Herman prepare it. Why didn't we just forget about the goody? Because that's not the way Herman operated.

By this time I had come to see that there was something devilishly malevolent about Herman. He wasn't the sweet little package of innocence we had been told to expect. For one thing, he would threaten to shrivel up and die if we didn't help him on the appointed day. I couldn't have that on my conscience. Not after the friend who had given me Herman had handed him over so lovingly, secure in the knowledge that she was giving him a good home.

The only thing I could do was to help him — reluctantly — knowing the worst was yet to come. Because the other thing about Herman was that every week-and-a-half he had to be cloned — or a part of him really would die. So even as I helped him I was preparing for Herman II.

The idea was that I was to give Herman II to a friend. (That's how I got my Herman in the first place, right?) Still, how could I, in good conscience, knowing what I knew, do that to a friend? Well, my friend did it to me, didn't she? Okay, look for a home for Herman II. Too late. All my friends either already had their own Herman clones or had heard enough about him to know they didn't want any part of him.

So now what? I would just have to go on caring for and feeding two Hermans, ever aware that in another week-and-a-half Hermans I and II would present me with Hermans III, IV, V, and VI.

I swear I wasn't thinking about that when, the day after the cloning, I forgot to feed them. I really did forget — it wasn't murder, I didn't even realize I had killed them until three days later, when I went in and they didn't even stir...they just laid there, flat as yesterday's soufflé. By then they could have been bubbly and effervescent, full of life...but they just laid there.

I didn't even try to revive them. It was too good to be true. I was free! The Hermans were dead...or were they? How could I dispose of them? I knew now that Herman thrived on tiny organisms. If I threw them down the sink or flushed them down the toilet or even buried them in the back yard, there was the chance that a few swallows of enzyme would bring them back to life. Then they could conceivably grow and multiply for ages until, finally, they would burst out of the earth in all their malodorous bloobiness and terrorize the world.

So I still have Hermans I and II. They are in cold storage in sealed containers until I can figure out what to do with them. What really scares me is that I know where my Hermans are, but even as I write, there are thousands of Hermans being nurtured and fed and cloned in the homes of the unsuspecting. They think that if they take good care of Herman, Herman will take good care of them.

HAH!

All I can do is warn you to beware of friends bearing gifts named Herman.

No, wait...He's beginning to use aliases now. Well, this is what to watch for:

He comes in old margarine and cool whip containers.

He smells like a brewery.

He is usually accompanied by a coffee cake recipe. That is his "gift."

Read the recipe carefully. Besides Herman, whose occupation, supposedly, is that of "sweet-dough starter", you must also add flour, sugar, oil, cinnamon, nuts, and (here's the clincher), both baking powder and baking soda. That should tell you something about the expense — not to mention the volatility — of Herman.

And for those of you who are still being taken in by that supposedly innocent vessel of froth, all I can say is, if you want to take the fate of the whole world on your shoulders, that's fine with me.

More on gun control

EDITOR — This paper published a letter by Harlan Carter, executive vice president of the National Rifle Association.

While acknowledging that the murder of John Lennon was "sad," Mr. Carter asserted that "no gun control law would have prevented this tragic act."

Unfortunately, the NRA has always opposed any attempt to require a formal background check of handgun purchasers' criminal and mental health records. Currently, buyers merely have to sign a statement saying that they have no such record.

Testifying before the House Subcommittee on Crime on Oct. 1, 1975, Mr. Carter was asked whether he would prefer to allow convicted violent felons, mentally deranged people, and violent drug addicts to have guns rather than to have a screening process for honest people. His reply: "A price we pay for freedom."

Instead of endorsing this check, the NRA has given their full support to the McClure-Volkmer "Federal Firearms Law Reform Act."

More aptly called the "Federal Felons Relief Act," this legislation allows persons convicted of any crime (including robbery and murder) to continue to buy and own handguns until they finally are convicted of the crime.

Incredibly, the bill also permits 40 classes of convicted felons (including assassins, extortionists, and gunrunners) not only to purchase handguns but to sell them as well.

All citizens concerned about handgun violence in our society should write to their senators and congressmen urging them to support meaningful controls on handguns and to oppose the McClure-Volkmer pro-criminal legislation.

Students are cheated

EDITOR — I have thought about our educational situation and I feel that we as citizens are cheating our children of full educational opportunity.

The uncertainty of the world prevails in our schools today, the pupils do not have the luxury we did while attending school. We could count on having the same teachers—count on school being opened (unless we were in the midst of an epidemic).

The beginning of school semester and vacations were like clock-work. Unlike today's uncertainty of schools being opened, because of problems cropping up of one nature or another.

The children are the losers, for they or their parents have no control while the teachers' strike; while money to run the schools is depleted; while the administrators are absent due to contract disputes or whatever reason, our children are the losers.

Really this is a situation that should not exist. Have we forgotten how difficult it was to get our children educated? What trouble we had passing laws to guarantee the child's education? How transportation was provided so the child had a way to attend school? Yes, we have gone to great length to insure our children's education.

We wanted this education provided for all children—now we have a new breed or creed to supervise the education system. We can start with handling of the money—is this being handled for the best interest of the children's education? Go on to the administrators—is it necessary to have so many? Busing the children—this is an evil—much cheaper and easier to have competent teacher's in schools that need to upgrade student's levels.

How easy it is to point out that the pupils have to change their environment to reach their potential academic peak. I can imagine our forefather's roaring with laughter at this folly. We have gotten away from educational provisions as intended: To insure an education should remain high among our priorities. We should ascertain the children are given the opportunity to get their full measure of education at least through High School. In this manner we can insure one of our freedom's.

Taxes, taxes, more taxes

EDITOR — A concerned citizen of Wayne, I among many others attended the meeting held at Wayne Community Center to get more information on Public Act 114.

We have already been taxed to death and this one will certainly break the camel's back and cause much more hostility toward our politicians.

The following day, I called City Hall to inquire of the percentage of assessment we are paying at the present time. I was told it was 2½ percent. If the act goes through at 3½ percent that will be an increase 15 times the present one. We were told at the meeting the average per home would run approximately $400 more. How can this be possible? I did my math and it far exceeds that.

I've lived here in Wayne for 36 years. I have seen unfairness all around where taxes are concerned.

Why are people penalized for improving and updating their property while others are literally patted on the back for down grading theirs?

I say, "Penalize the offenders and that in itself will help with the tax woes. I can now understand why some hesitate to even get a permit, should they desire to do something for they are aware of the consequences."

For what it is worth you will soon see value decrease sharply and the home will deteriorate to drastic measures. Do you actually want to see that happen?

Many of us bought our homes while we were very young and took great pride in them looking excitingly toward the day they were all paid for, but now our taxes exceed the mortgage payments.

Perhaps our politicians have a crystal ball and can look into the future, attempting to shove us in government apartments as is done in many foreign countries.

If this is their ambitions watch out for all future elections.

Dangerous hobbies

EDITOR — Hobbies are for relaxation, for helping you forget business or family worries. They are not supposed to maim and certainly not to kill.

Yet for years the people engaged in one of the most popular pastimes — furniture restoration, either for profit or just for enjoyment — have been using a commercial product containing a chemical which can blind you, cause cancer or bring on fatal heart attacks or strokes.

I should know. As the "Jack" in "Jack the Stripper," a firm which specializes in removing old paint from furniture, I was subjected to this lethal chemical and it blinded me. If I hadn't stopped using it just in time, I'd be dead now.

The chemical, known as Methylene Chloride, is very efficient at stripping paint from furniture, a necessary prerequisite in most restoration procedures. But if the person doing the paint-stripping inhales the fumes created by the process, he or she could be in deep trouble.

"When inhaled," says a release from the Consumer Product Safety Commission of the U.S. Government, "Methylene Chloride forms carbon monoxide in the body, reducing the blood's potential to carry oxygen and causing stress on the heart." If the individual has any history of lung or heart trouble, even a few minutes exposure to the fumes may be fatal. The report details several case histories of heart attack deaths caused by Methylene Chloride.

This letter of mine is intended as a warning, not a commercial. But since losing my sight — it's not entirely gone; I'm classified as "severely visually disabled" meaning I can tell the difference between day and night and a few other things — I've found another non-chemical product which strips paint off easily, quickly, cheaply and safely enough for a baby to use. I'll be happy to give all the information to anyone who calls me or writes me at:

On Ross' death

EDITOR — Society, the State of Michigan, the County of Wayne, and the City of Inkster have suffered a loss nearly as great as the family of Jane Ross.

With Jane's passing went a great woman. She was often chided for writing kind words about her detractors, even at times when she didn't agree with some. Jane delighted in helping people. She would diligently seek solutions to individual as well as group problems. Too often she was hurt to see people mistreated.

An employee of your newspaper firm too few people understood Jane as a newspaper-woman; too few understood her role of the "devil's advocate" in order to get the facts. Jane had her facts correct 99 percent of the time.

I noted when I glanced through the registration book at the mortuary that some people, who at some time in life, had given Jane a difficult way to go, came to view her for the last time. She had a good and infectious personality.

I was in Lansing, Michigan when I received a call advising of her passing. Later, I had to go to the Capitol Building and was stopped by a Legislator and an Education Lobbyist, both, that rapidly after her death, further advised me of her passing. She was known at all levels of society.

Jane we've all lost because of your passing, but we've all gained a lot because of your living. Thanks, and rest in peace.

Reflections

When a loved one is ill

Hemet, Calif. Let me tell you about my brother-in-law. When he first came a-swallowing into the little town of Caldwell, Id., he was about the most handsome hunk of man the girls in that town had ever seen. And he set their hearts a-fluttering, what with his long, lean body and his dandy western garb; his dark, dancing eyes, his mass of dark, wavy hair, suitably set off by the best looking cowboy hat money could ever buy.

He was exciting stuff, and my little sister gave him a couple of looks out of her big, brown eyes, and maybe a wink or two, and she took his heart right away.

He made his living following the cattle. Where they were feeding he was there, making money off the fatted calf, you might say. But his greatest talent was his voice, for with that voice he became the delight of the auction block, and if a rancher wanted to get the most money out of his cattle, it was to Glenn, the auctioneer, he brought them.

And he walked away rubbing those silver dollars between his palms, delight flooding his soul.

Besides being the best auctioneer in these parts, Glenn sat a horse as if born to the saddle and there is no one around who knows horse flesh better than my sister's husband.

He has another talent, too. He can cuss better than most anyone you ever hope to hear, and while he wouldn't think of cussin' in front of no woman, he can still spice up a conversation a good bit.

There is one word he doesn't consider a cuss word. It's just a part of his conversation. Where another man might begin his sentence with "well," Glenn begins it with "hell."

"Hell, Girl," he will say to me, "What you tryin' to do?"

"I'm trying to open the window," I tell him.

"Hell, you've been openin' that window for over a week now, seems to me you ought to be able to open it without all that rasslin' around you're doin'."

I am here because my sister was in the hospital and Glenn is fighting the biggest fight he has ever faced. He is struggling with cancer, and the chemotherapy has laid him low.

He says it is only temporary as he struggles to overcome the sickness and the weakness that overwhelms him after each treatment. He lies in his room, that beautiful hair turned white; that is, as much as he has left of it. However, he believes that once he gets his strength back, his hair will come back in. He sent me to the store to buy a special comb that "just might tease them hair roots up a little bit."

It worries him that when you bring food into him, that damned stuff stares me in the face with the devil's own wicked eyes.

"Hell," he says, "I haven't eaten enough to fill a bluebirds' gut."

He insists on his blinds being pulled and I reckon it's because the sight of all that sunshine out there, and knowing it is shining down on his place on the desert where his horses are waiting for him, just plumb hurts his soul, and he turns away from it.

Two of his friends came in to see him this morning. He had just had his bath, and under protest downed a couple of glasses of liquid jello that he says is about the most putrefying thing God put on this earth.

"You gotta get some nourishment down you, Glenn," his friend urged. "If you drink enough of that stuff you'll be up and a-chasin' girls in no time a-tall."

"Hell, that's no way to spark up a man's interest," my brother-in-law re-

BY JOYCE HAGELTHORN

torted. "If you'll bring a nice little filly around I might be able to get that stuff down."

His standard retort when food is brought in to him and he is asked if he will eat it, has been "Hell no, I'm not eatin' that stuff."

My sister is sometimes overwhelmed with despair. She doesn't want to lose this beautiful hunk of man, even though some of that beauty is temporarily hidden from sight.

"He's got to get well," she whispers fiercely, and if fierceness can do it, that hunk is going to get well whether he wants to or not. And maybe it pays off, because I just took him the gravy from a prime rib of beef, hot from the broiler, and steaming with goodness.

"Want some steak broth, Glenn?" I asked, all smiles and cheerful chirping.

"Hell, yes," he answered. An he ate it all up.

ings of your food budget.

That is almost better than a raise, as it will be a savings of money you are not spending, whereas a salary increase is taxed.

This could be carried through to other areas. Someone buying four tires is not in as good a bargaining position as someone who is buying twenty tires.

I know this sounds like more work than just going down to the local market and buying what you need when you need it, but I truly believe the cost benefits are there.

You also need to remember that you will not be doing the whole job yourself, whis will be shared research and efforts.

Even if you started with a basic coupon exchange and an information exchange (about sales and special bargains) you would be doing something more than complaining about inflation.

There are many other areas this could be expanded to include such as group travel savings, insurance group prices for carpentry, plumbing, etc., book exchanges, etc.

I hope others find this a practical route to go in fighting the high costs of living today. Thank you for giving me an opportunity to express my thoughts and feelings.

Dear Carol,

My sister came over to my house to visit my family.

She stayed a few days and seemed to have a good time.

I just received my telephone bill—she made over $100 in long distance calls.

Let's fight inflation together

Dear Carol,

Recently you received a letter about the frustrations of the present economic situation of inflation and unemployment.

The writer was having difficulties with not being able to make ends meet. He felt alone in facing these problems.

You suggested sharing his concerns with his family and with others.

I would like to add to that suggestion. I feel we need to see a return to the days of cooperation and interdependence among neighbors, a case of sharing efforts for the greatest amount of benefit.

If a group of families and individuals were to get together and function cooperatively I feel that they could reap financial as well as time savings.

One area that inflation has hit that directly affects all of us is food. Prices have gone up drastically.

By banding together items could be purchased in case lots directly from warehouses or wholesale houses.

Items could include paper products, canned goods, frozen foods and other staples. Other things that could be purchased in bulk would be poultry, eggs, meat and produce.

I realize it would take some work and a lot of cooperation, but it really could mean a significant percentage of sav-

Ask your VA Office

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.)

Q. — I am attending school under the GI Bill. I have been referred to the Veterans Administration by my training facility because of unsatisfactory progress. Is counseling mandatory in my case?

A. — Under present guidelines, a claims examiner reviews a veteran's situation to assess whether he may be permitted to continue in his training program. A veteran has the option of requesting counseling as a means of resolving an unsatisfactory progress issue.

Q. — I receive a Veterans Administration widow's pension and I recently started receiving Supplemental Social Security Income (SSI). Am I required to report this additional income to VA?

A. — Yes. Even though public assistance such as SSI is not considered income for VA pension purposes, you should report it and all other changes in your income to VA.

Q. — Can active duty service personnel get a GI guaranteed home loan?

A. — Yes. Veterans Administration form 26-1880 must be completed and submitted to the nearest VA regional office with a statement of service signed by the serviceman's commanding officer. VA will then issue the loan guaranty eligibility certification.

Are paying the price
For our man made mistakes
Be it man, woman or child
There's not one to blame
For we've all had a share

The problems still unsolved

Star gazing: Wayne businesswoman believes astrology can provide helpful insight into the future

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Playtime Coordinator

Marianne McHugh typed all the vital information into the computer. Name, birthplace, date and time of birth—precisely the vital statistics needed to analyze the character of an inquisitive reporter.

"This is your natal chart," she pointed out, revealing a printout filled with strange numbers and symbols. "It takes into account the position of the planets at the time of birth. In a couple hours an astrologer can use this to find out your personality traits, the type of job and marriage partner you're best suited for, what your childhood was like and future periods of stress and opportunity in your life."

All from a funny looking computer printout?

"Astrology is based on mathematics, it's not fortune telling," McHugh explained. "There's no scientific basis for fortune telling whereas astrology is a metaphysical science dealing with the movement of planets in the solar system."

"A chart will show possible times of stress or good luck," she added, "but that doesn't mean you can't alter the situation. Because we have a free will, we can circumvent events if we are given advance notice."

"Everyone seems to be asking 'What's tomorrow going to bring?' And what they want to know about relates to one of three things—love, money or health."

McHugh is hopeful that people will seek some astrological answers at her new business venture, Hilda's, a novelty store located in Westland, at 34785 Ford Road. In addition to featuring books and charts on astrology, Hilda's offers magic and gag merchandise along with printed T-shirts.

"This is a unique store," said McHugh, a co-owner with Hilda Quigley. "We offer what people can't find at other places. It's something different and we've had a good response on the astrology so far."

A Wayne resident and self-proclaimed "student of astrology," this businesswoman views the position of the sun, moon and planets as more than a hobby. Her training included college courses, three years of individual study with astrologers and some "$700 worth of books at home." In fact it was a good sign in her chart that prompted this former bookkeeper into opening a business in the first place.

Love, rather than the local horoscope column, perked her interest in astrology.

"I was having a problem with my love life five years ago," recalled McHugh.

"So I went to a Wayne astrologer (Toni Lewis) and she told me what the guy looked like just from my chart. I remember asking her how she knew so much about him after looking at some numbers and symbols. That's how I got interested."

"Then an astrologer told me I would receive an inheritance," she continued. "Well, since I'm the youngest of 12 children and my parents are deceased, I had my doubts. But the prediction proved true—I later received an inheritance from my oldest sister."

Although she will only interpret charts for friends, referring others to more veteran astrologers, McHugh readily recalls one memorable experience with an astrological prognostication.

"I said my grandson would be born on Dec. 16 after checking my daughter's chart," she proudly revealed. "I was off—he was born on Dec. 6—but because of some physical complications he was released from the hospital on Dec. 16."

Obviously, this middle-aged astrologer doesn't need any convincing testimony to the value of watching the movement of heavenly bodies. But convincing the public that astrology can hold the key to the future? That's where some problems can occur.

Take, for example, the "misconceptions," as McHugh is quick to mention.

"Sure, astrologers are looked on as being weird by some," she admitted. "Many people put us with palm readers and psychics—they think of voodoo, the occult and some mysterious woman looking into a crystal ball."

"That's just not astrology," she frowned, admittedly not looking very mysterious in blue slacks and sweater. "Astrology is scientific and helps a person understand why others act the way they do. The horoscope literature you see around is simply too general to be of any use—no two people have the same chart."

Testing of potential astrologers by the American Federation of Astrologers adds to the credibility of the science, according to McHugh. However, she knows the skeptics will remain nonetheless.

"The three Wise Men were astrologers," she said. "They saw the star and knew the Savior was born."

Fishing Lines

By BOB SAWITSKI

A casual observer would have a difficult time understanding why anyone in his right mind would subject his body to such an insane pastime as fishing on a body of water that has frozen solid.

Not only does an icefisherman have to contend with the elements, but his mobility is severely impaired both by heavy clothing and by the fact that every time he wants to move to a different spot, he has to cut, chop, drill or spud another hole through ice that sometimes can be four or five feet thick.

He sits on a stool or an overturned bucket for hours on end in sleet, blustery winds and snowstorms, falls on his can every third or fourth step and—if he's really lucky—he'll have a few dinky perch to show for his efforts.

An icefisherman would be hard pressed to come up with an explanation on why he finds it so enjoyable.

Perhaps these tips, prepared by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, will help make your icefishing trips even more enjoyable:

TECHNIQUES—There are three basic ways to go about icefishing: with handlines, tip-ups, or spears. The first two are the most popular, probably because they are the simplest and can be used for taking just about every kind of legal fish that swims in Michigan waters.

Spear fishing is a more specialized sport which puts a premium on patience and accuracy.

Generally, all three methods are best from around dawn until mid-morning and again from late afternoon to sundown. However, spearing action usually holds up throughout the day.

Keep in mind that fish become rather sluggish during the winter and move around less than during summer. So it stands to reason that the more holes you cut and try, the better your chances are for locating fish.

HOOK AND LINE—In getting geared up, you'll want a short fishing rod two to three feet in length. A climber cord is usually preferred for catching panfish and trout, and a stiff rod, which aids in setting the hook, for pike, walleyes and muskies. If you're after big fish, a free-running reel, instead of the usual line-winding cleat, is a must. It will allow you to "play" your fish. And when used without a bobber, this reel will let you change your fishing depth easily.

Fishing line should be transparent monofilament. Not over four-pound test is recommended for panfish and brown and rainbow trout. Anglers who fish for pike and muskies use line as heavy as eight- to 12-pound test. Neglecting to use light line is probably the most frequent mistake of unsuccessful fishermen. Occasionally, fish will break light line, but with some finesse, you can land lost fish and are certain to have more bites.

When it comes to the bobber, the smaller the better, as long as it's big enough to stay afloat. The boat buoyance and lure weight should be balanced so the slightest nibble will sink the bobber and offer minimum resistance to the fish. If the float is too big, fish often spit out the bait.

TIP-UPS—Tip-ups equipped with reels and flaps are used mostly for larger fish. They are cheap to buy and easy to make.

There is no big trick to operating tip-ups; they are merely baited and set out. When a fish bites, the flag flies up and the fun begins. The rest is up to the fishermen and he goes to it by giving his line a solid jerk, setting the hook. Next, he pulls the line in rapidly, hand over hand. When the fish is near the hole, it's time to play it careful.

In their haste, anglers more frequently lose their catches at this point by trying to get the fish on the ice before it is ready. Be prepared to let the line slip through your fingers—but always with some tension.

Tip-ups are especially nice to have in colder weather when it's hard to stand guard over fishing holes for a long period of time. Once the tip-ups are set out, the fisherman can retire to a warm shanty and wait for the action to pop. Or, tip-ups give an angler the chance to try their luck at handline fishing at the same time. But remember—Michigan fishing laws permit an angler to use only two poles at the same time. This means you can operate two handlines, a handline and a tip-up, or two tip-ups.

SPEARING—An absolute "must" is to have a dark shanty which eliminates the chance of fish seeing you and being spooked. If you have a stove in your shanty, make sure the glow from it is blocked. The shanty itself should be sturdily built so the sound from your movements inside will not travel through the ice. The fisherman should wear dark clothing and gloves.

How to make icefishing more enjoyable? Michigan DNR offers some advice

For the sake of accuracy, use a spear that is weighted. Those that aren't have to be thrown too hard and this tends to make them angle off course.

Overall weight of the spear depends upon the fisherman's tastes and the kind of fish he's going after.

The spear used on sturgeon may weigh as much as 18 pounds. Your spear should have seven to nine strong tines and about a seven-foot handle with a rope attached so you won't lose it.

In attaching the rope, run it through a cotterpin on the spear's handle down to the tines where it is tied fast or secured with a metal ring. When you hit the mark and start to haul the fish up, a slight jerk pulls the cotter in out and let you lift the spear with the tines up. If the fish isn't speared very well, this helps to keep it on the tines instead of giving it a chance to work free.

The element of surprise can't be overstressed as a key to successful spear fishing. In getting poised for action, lower your spear into the water before you release it. Otherwise, it will make a loud splash when it hits the water and alert the fish in time to let it dart away to safety.

A familiar sight to icefishermen.

Eye on Leisure

By LOTHAR KONIETZKO

Life of a prep coach

The life of a high school basketball coach is filled with plenty of ups and downs. Just ask Canton's Craig Bell (above). During a recent game against Northville, the coach took turns being a strategist and a cheerleader. His efforts on the sidelines proved exhausting but rewarding as the Chiefs pulled off a 46-38 upset.

Outdoorama has buck test

Michigan's 750,000 deer hunters match wits with whitetails for two weeks each fall, but fewer than 15 percent bring home bucks.

How big were the trophy bucks this past fall? Sportsmen will learn the answer at Outdoorama — at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, through March 1 — according to Jim Hebert, co-sponsor of the outdoor show's new Big Buck Contest.

"Racks will be scored according to Safari Club International methods," according to Hebert, the official scorer. Each evening at Outdoorama a $50 Eddie Bauer gift certificate will be awarded to the hunter who brings in the largest buck rack.

State entertainment,

250 exhibitors, continuously running outdoor films and sportsmen's clinics and demonstrations highlight the 1981 Outdoorama.

The show's sponsor, Michigan United Conservation Clubs, is a non-profit association.

What Is Chiropractic?

Although Chiropractic as we know it is only 80-odd years old, its basic principles were understood in ancient times. Indeed Hippocrates, the father of medicine said, "Look well to the spine for the cause of disease." Chiropractic philosophy teaches that many diseases and illnesses are the result of nerve interference. Since virtually every function of the body depends on nerve impulses from the brain, an uninterrupted flow of these impulses is essential to good health. The spinal cord, which serves as the "switchboard" of the nervous system, is housed and protected by the spine. Nerves leaving the spinal cord exit through nerve openings between the individual spinal segments which are called vertebrae. Should one or more vertebrae become misaligned due to accident or postural change, the nerve opening is reduced and the resulting "pinched" nerve creates nerve interference. Left uncorrected, this nerve interference can lead to serious health problems such as ulcers, headaches, arthritis and bursitis. The goal of Chiropractic is to correct the cause of such health problems by restoring the spine to its proper alignment. When the proper flow of nerve impulses is restored, the body can begin to heal itself from within. Today, more and more people are turning to Chiropractic in their search for health. They prefer its natural approach, without the use of potentially harmful drugs and expensive surgery.

Many leading insurance companies recognize claims for Chiropractic treatment when the condition treated falls within the scope of Chiropractic care. Additionally, the Medicare coverage provided our Senior Citizens includes Chiropractic care.

Belleville wins regional wrestling crown

Can Tigers take state?

Does Belleville own the best high school wrestling team in the state? That question will be answered this weekend when the survivors of five regional state tournaments gather in Ann Arbor to compete for the coveted state title.

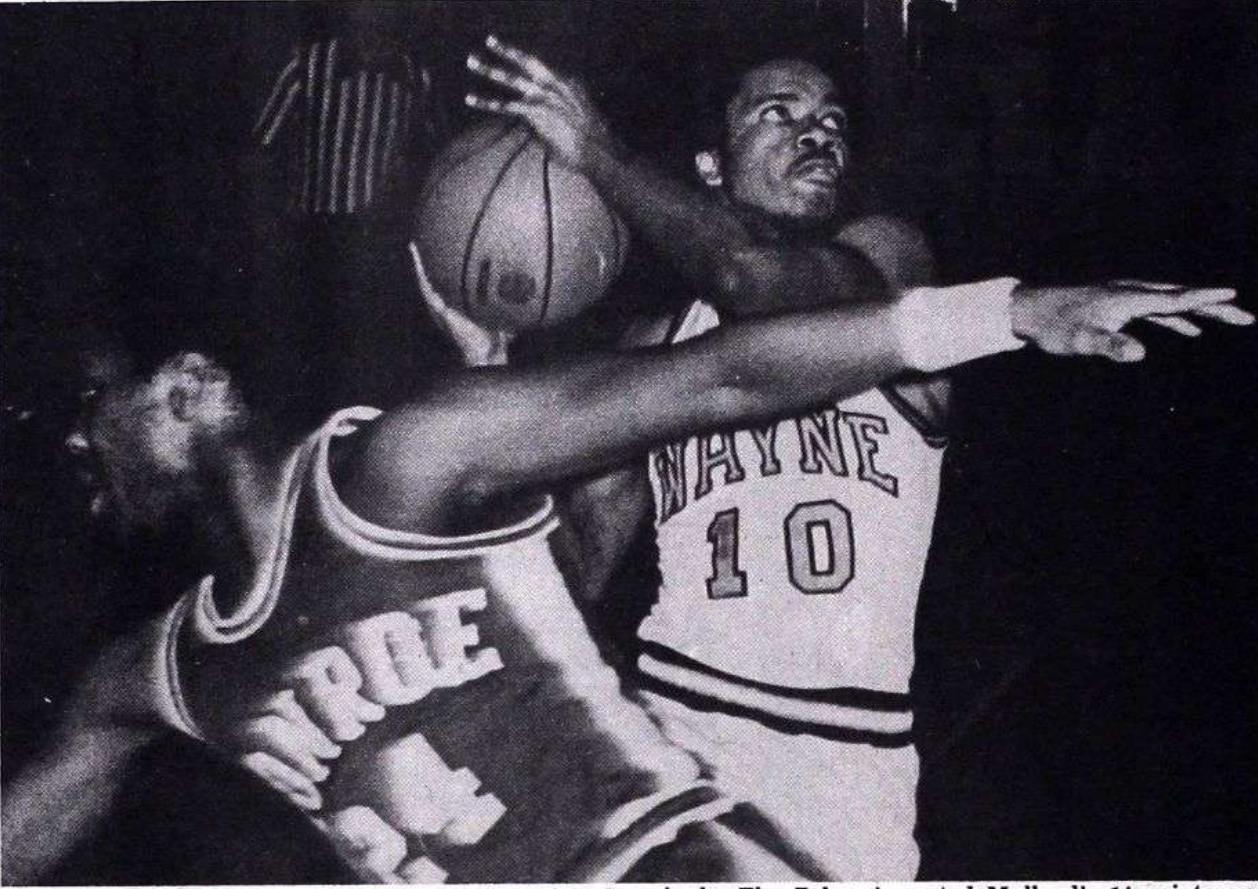

Belleville and Coach Jerry Malecek captured the second leg of the prestigious "triple crown" of high school wrestling over the weekend by finishing atop of a 25-team field at the regionals at Ann Arbor-Huron.

The Tigers did it without winning a single weight class.

Salem, which finished second to the Tigers at the AAH district, also was runner-up at the Ann Arbor Huron regionals. The Rocks lost the first place Trophy to their Suburban 8 Conference opponents, 96-79.

But the Rocks had the best heavyweight at the AAH regional in Marty Piper. Salem also qualified Jeff Vojcek (98) and Bill Ward (119) for state.

In the meantime, Wayne Memorial emerged from the Trenton Regional with a surprising fourth place and two regional champs. Coach Don Haney received sterling efforts from Paul Justice who was the No. 1 wrestler at 105, and Dan Matauch who is wearing the gold for his efforts at 112.

Temperance Bedford, the defending Class A state champ, edged host, Trenton, 141-139½, for the regional title, while Dearborn Heights Annapolis finished third (62) and Wayne Memorial was fourth with 52 points.

The Sports Meridian

'Your on cable TV

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

There is a lot of talk about cable TV these days — some good; some bad. But Cherry Hill head basketball coach, Dave Bogataj, has nothing but praise for the system. He and his Spartans have been privileged to be on cable TV four times during the current season.

"And, the kids really like it," said Bogataj whose team has clinched the Tri-River Conference championship and is sporting a 12-0 conference and a 14-3 over-all record. "Putting a prep team on the tube really perks up the players.

"Our kids love it — in fact, they can't wait to get to a TV set and watch themselves play."

Cable TV is penetrating the area and with it, it is bringing unending possibilities of coverage. Its 48 to 58 channels allow for local coverage that the networks could never ever dream of handling.

Of course, cable TV subscribers have to pay for the entertainment but, according to Bogataj, "it's really cheap when you figure for about seven bucks you can see all of the action.

"We spend that much on hamburgers these days," the Spartan coach added.

Although most of the communities in the ANP area are considering cable TV none, with the exception of Plymouth, have had systems built.

Last game in old gym for Wayne

Friday night is a historic occasion for Wayne Memorial and its basketball team. It is the last time they will play in their "old gym" before moving over to their newly-constructed $1.8 million athletic complex.

Obviously, Coach Steve Schwartz and his cagers would like nothing more than to win the "last one". They'll host Wyandotte for their regular season and Great Lakes 8 Conference finale.

"It would be nice to finish up with a victory, but it won't be easy," Coach Schultz said. "We had our problems with Wyandotte in the past and they're an excellent team. What we would like to do is to win our final couple of games and hope the momentum will carry over to the playoffs."

Wayne is scheduled to see action at the Plymouth Salem tournament starting next week.

Another Wayne coach, Don Haney, made news last week when his wrestling team finished fourth at the regional tournament and produced two regionals wrestling champs. This was one of those proverbial "rebuilding years" for the Zebras.

"You know I'm really happy about the progress of this team," Haney said. "The two kids who won regional titles underclassmen, so we have something to build with for next year.

"Earlier in the season we had difficulty filling the weight classes, and we still do in the heavier weights because I feel some of the kids prefer picking up iron that won't fight back.

Speaking of history, it was probably the first time in Westland John Glenn's

Undeclared Cherry Hill wins Tri-River league cage title

Although they have the Tri-River Conference basketball championship in their hands, Cherry Hill and Coach Dave Bogataj have yet another goal in the league.

"We'd like to be the first since 1969 to capture the title with a perfect record," said Bogataj after the Spartans rallied to a 50-39 victory over Dearborn Heights Riverside last Friday and beat Melvindale 41-27 earlier in the week for their 12th successive conference victory.

With two games left and with the rest of the league pack with at least three losses, Cherry Hill has its fourth title in five years. It is Bogataj's first championship as head coach. He replaced Dick McNally two years ago.

"We have a goal left in this league and that's trying to duplicate what Drewitz (Garden City West's Rick Drewitz, a prep All-American) and West did back in the late 60s. We'd like to win 14 games and go undefeated in the league."

River Rouge Is Next

Inkster's looking good

Blocking the newly-crowned champs' path is Taylor Kennedy which has the unfortunate honor of being Cherry Hill's guests Friday night. Kennedy is sporting a dismal 5-7 won-lost record as the week begun. (Cherry Hill was scheduled to play Southgate Tuesday night in a make-up game.)

Tied at 17-11 after the first period, Inkster outscored their rivals 24-16 in the second period to take a 41-33 lead at the half-way mark. Ecorse made a run for it in the next eight minutes as Tidwell led a rally that pulled his team within three-points (54-51) of catching their hosts. A 14-12 Viking scoring edge settled the issue in the last period.

Before Coach Spencer Grant and the Inkster Vikings can concentrate on the Class B playoffs scheduled for next week, they will have to contend with arch-Suburban Athletic Conference cage rival, River Rouge.

"Because of tradition and everything, Rouge always draws a crowd," said Grant whose team will travel on Friday to the Panther lair for the season's SAC wrap-up. "Both teams are out of the title running. This game is a good tune-up for the districts, and we'd like to have the momentum that a victory would provide."

Inkster is slated to play for the district title at neighboring Robichaud where several area teams including Cherry Hill, Riverside, Divine Child and Garden City West will provide the competition. The Vikings carry a 10-7 over-all and 3-4 SAC record into Friday night's finale at Rouge.

Grant and the Vikings received an extra boost from Darryl Lewis who came up with a pair of superb dunks in their 68-63 victory last Friday over Ecorse. Lewis, who had 16 points and 14 rebounds against the Red Raiders, turned things around for the Vikings in the second half as he stunned his opponents with the "dunks."

Glenn upsets league-leading R.U., 52-48

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

There's one thing Coach Dan Henry can't say anymore about his players. The second-year John Glenn coach challenged his team last week with the taunt, "You have a fine over-all record — but what have you done in the league?"

As a result, the Rockets went out Thursday night and knocked off league-leading Redford Union, 52-48, dropping the visiting Panthers to 7-2 in the Northwest Suburban League and a game behind Redford Thurston.

That victory, coupled with Glenn's 57-51 conquest of non-league foe Livonia Churchill earlier last week, ran the Rockets' record to 13-5 over-all and 5-4 in NSL play.

Glenn settled the issue against Redford Union in the first quarter. It raced to a 16-6 margin after eight minutes and led 24-19 at intermission. Lefty Rob Sisson dominated the boards for Glenn, grabbing a game-high 15 rebounds and scoring seven points.

RU took a 12-11 margin in the third period and the teams evenly divided 38 fourth quarter points. But it went right down to the final minute.

Guards Tony Dalimonte and Tom Smith were outstanding in the game — each scoring 11 points to lead Glenn's attack and each playing a masterful floor game.

Dalimonte made seven crucial points in the third quarter and Smith's six fourth period markers — four on free throws — proved to be the difference.

"This is the third game in a row that our bench has been instrumental in close games," Henry said in the heady atmosphere of knocking off Redford Union. The loss drops the Panthers a game behind Thurston and gives the Eagles an outstanding chance to grab the NSL cage crown.

Glenn's and Redford Union's boisterous fans roared from buzzer to buzzer. The noise became increasingly intense when the visitors battled back in the second half to knot the score at 44-44 on two free throws by Rob Reese, who tied with Todd Hillis and Jerry Burk for team scoring honors with 10.

However, Dalimonte was then fouled as he drove the center of the lane. He got a muscle cramp and Dave Cesarz was substituted off the bench to shoot the pair of foul shots. Cesarz was perfect on both shots to give the Rockets a 46-44 lead with 1:40 left in the game.

Smith was fouled in the backcourt, sank the first end of a 1-and-1 before clinging the game at the 0:52 mark on a 3-point play and then adding a free throw at 0:28 to make it 51-47. The teams exchanged one free throw each in the last 17 seconds.

Guard Steve Hodges played a heady floor game — highlighted by his full-court pass to Dave Ward under the basket to keep Glenn ahead by two points in the last three minutes of the game. Ward and Kevin Thweatt each snared seven rebounds.

Against Churchill, Henry kept switching defenses every few minutes to keep the taller Chargers off-balance on their homecourt. Glenn led 17-14; 29-23 and 43-41 after each of the first three buz-zers.

A 14-10 last quarter margin decided the issue. Rockets Sisson (15 points), Ward (12), and Thweatt (10) finished in double figures in the scoring column.

For Coach Don Albertson's Chargers, Ron Reed dropped in 14 points for the only Churchill player to hit twin digits.

Monroe hands Wayne its first league swim loss in 5 years

A Monroe "sweep" in the breast-stroke event and a third place finish by Wayne's medley relay team paved the way for Monroe's nailbiting 87-85 victory over Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras last week.

The loss was the first for Wayne this year and it also ended a 5-year dual meet Zebra winning streak in the Great Lakes '8' Conference.

"It wasn't that we didn't swim well," Coach McPartlin said afterwards. "We had some excellent times, however, there was a combination of things that led to our loss."

Wayne had won all nine of its dual meets this season before running up against its league rivals who swept eight of the 11 events.

Wayne received two of its three winning performances from Eric Head who turned in a 23.0 for the 50-yard freestyle and then posted a 51.0 for his triumph in the 100-yard freestyle.

Monroe now has the upper hand in the upcoming conference championships which will be held March 5-6 at Lincoln Park High School. Wayne would have to win the league invitational in order to share the conference title.

"So we just kept changing defenses to upset their rhythm and we sent five men crashing the boards to keep them from utilizing their superior height," Henry said.

Glenn tangled with Wayne Memorial Tuesday night of this week in a game postponed earlier by a snowstorm and closes out its regular season Friday night at Garden City East in an NSL contest.

Over 30 hockey race goes to wire

Johnson's is new leader

With only one point separating league-leading Johnson Carbonic and runner-up, Jock Shop, the Bonkowski Division title race in the Westland-Wayne Over 30 Hockey League remains as tight as any championship race.

Johnson's has amassed 12 victories in 20 outings, while losing five and tying three for their 27 points. Challenger, the Jock Shop, is close on the leader's heels with 11-5-4 for their overall performances.

In the meantime, Little Bill's Trophies appears to have the Berrington Division title in its mitt as they have a four-point (32-28) spread over their nearest rival, Tastee Freeze.

After holding on to the number one position in the Bonkowski Division for 12 straight weeks, the Jock Shop dropped what could have been the most important game of the year to John Carbonic, 5-2.

The defeat puts the Jock Shop one point behind Johnson Carbonic with just two games remaining.

Ron Johnson once again led his team, Johnson Carbonic, to victory, scoring two goals and assisting three others. Norm Beasley netted the puck twice and picked up one assist while Claud Johnson accounted for one goal. Mike Forynski assisted two goals. Eugene Hudson and John Kunz assisted on one goal each for the winners.

Jerry Robertson and Ron Wojewski scored one goal apiece for the losers. Both players also picked up one assist. Ken Knick and Bill Creekmore had one assist each.

Little Bill's Trophies retained its lead in the Berrington Division by skating past Extra Point, 5-4. Dan Thomas, Don Middaugh and Dennis LaPensee tallied once and picked up one assist. Jerry Bular started off the third period scoring with Terry Carley netting the winning puck with 4:05 remaining in the contest.

Playoff competition is slated to begin Sunday, March 8, and will run through the end of March.

A 'spoiler's role' for Zebras

Wayne jars Lincoln Park

It isn't often that Wayne Memorial cagers will do Fordson a favor. But the Zebras put on their "spoiler's robes" last week and knocked off front-running Lincoln Park.

That upset lifted Fordson into a two-way tie for first place and now the Railsplitters must take on the Dearborn cagers to determine who'll own the 1981 Great Lakes 8 Conference crown.

"We finally put together the kind of game that I knew we were capable of playing," said Wayne Coach Steve Scultz. "There has been a lot of inconsistency this year and I hope that this will help us get ready for the playoffs."

Any hope of consistency was shattered Friday night, however, by Monroe who stunned the Zebras 77-63. The loss left Wayne fourth place and with a 6-4 record.

Wayne blew a 13 point lead against the visiting Trojans who had the edge at the foul line (27-of-41) as compared to the Zebra 15 of 31 effort.

In that Monroe game Wayne built up an 18-7 lead after the first eight minutes and increased it to 13 early in the second period before personal fouls took their toll. One of the victims was 6-7 Bill Hargrove who gave the Zebras control of the boards before this departure to the bench. Teammate Rick Rogers also collected his third foul in that period, leaving the Zebras almost defenseless on the boards.

With Monroe's Jeff Barnes opening up with short and long range artillery, the Trojans countered with a 26-10 third period to go ahead 53-42, then went on to outscore their hosts 24-21 in the last frame to seal the victory.

Barnes scored a game high 29 points, more than enough to offset Fred Mallard's 14 points — Wayne's highman. Alfred Russell and Rogers split 20 points.

In their sterling effort against L.P., Wayne worked 15 leads of 14-6 and 33-20 leads as Hargrove neutralized 6-9 Lincoln Park center Vince Ford who wasn't a real factor in this one.

The Railsplitters closed in the last two minutes of the game when they ripped off the final six points. It made it look closer than it was.

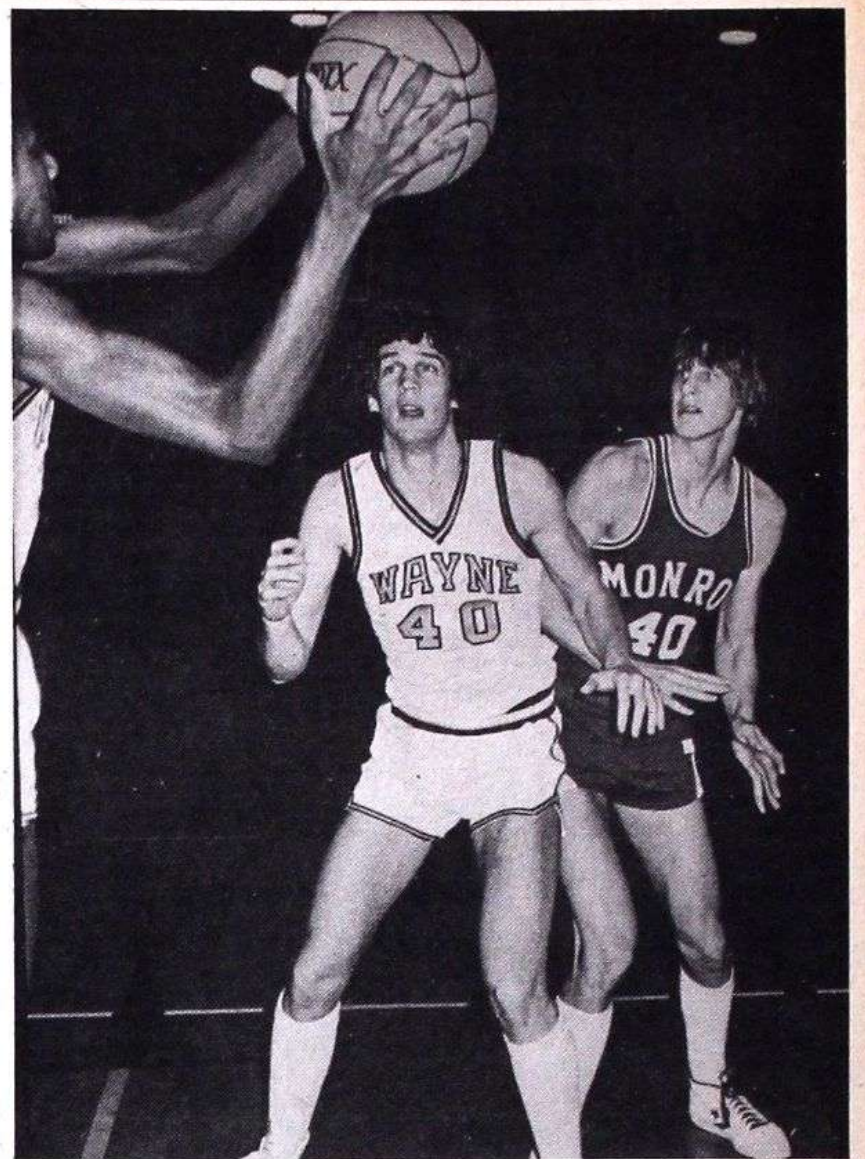

Mallard, who had 6-of-8 at the free throw line — some of those in clutch situations, also sank five baskets for 16 points, while Hargrove chipped in 12 and Rogers contributed 11.

Some will argue that basketball isn't a contact sport, but obviously those who do believe it haven't played the game. And, Wayne's Bill Hargrove (40) duels Monroe's 6-7 Mike Gallagher (also 40) for bodily position, to make that point. When all the points were totaled, moreover, Monroe had a 77-63 victory and moved into third place, while Wayne evacuated that position for fourth place. The Great Lakes 8 Conference championship goes down to the wire on Friday when Lincoln Park and Fordson fight it out.

Belleville splits - plays Taylor Truman in season's finale

The aphorism about something working one day, but not the next was apparent last week for the Belleville Tigers who, with the help of one play put down Trenton 53-52, but failed on the same play that led the way to a 54-53 setback at the hands of Allen Park.

"We set up one of our players for a last second shot against Trenton," explained Belleville Coach Tom Niemi, "and it worked. However, that same darn play failed against Allen Park."

The split left Belleville with a 3-8 Suburban 8 Conference basketball record with only Dearborn, (whom they were to play Tuesday night) left on the league schedule. The Tigers bring down their regular season at Taylor Truman Friday night.

Dearborn is leading the Sub-8 pack and Niemi would like nothing better than to spoil the Pioneers' dream of a championship year.

Belleville, with the help of the Grantham brothers—Reggie and Kim—along with some excellent defensive play from Steve Peets—jumped out in front against the Trojans and took a 18-12 lead. They held the lead all the way despite a desperate Trenton surge that pulled them within a point of catching up.

Ahead 31-23 at the halfway mark, Belleville outscored Trenton 11-9 in the third period before Dave Galke came alive and pumped in eight of his 16 points in the last eight minutes. With seconds left, Belleville let the Trojans dribble the length of the floor to make the final basket.

Grantham scored a game high 17 points, while Mike Sampson chipped in 13—six of those in the opening period—and Sam Villa contributed 11 as well as teamed with Peets to give the Tigers the edge on the boards over a taller Trenton quintet.

A 11-day layoff proved disastrous for Belleville, which missed miserably from the floor and committed a rash of turnovers in its loss the Allen Park.

wrestling history that the Rockets failed to qualify another out of the regionals.

And most of the blame can be placed on the new and controversial system the Michigan High School Athletic Association introduced this year. Watch for a flock of letters criticizing the rule for a finalist to have to defend his second place status.

With the present rule, a wrestler who finishes second in his weight class must "wrestle back", clashing with the winner of the consolation bracket in order to see who is "season best."

"There was a lot of discussion about that at the tournament," said Jak Warren, who will be the official scorer for the Class A state finals. "However, it is just too new a rule for anyone to know how good it is."

The state finals, moreover, will be held in neighboring Ann Arbor at the Crisler Arena. The preliminaries are scheduled for 11 a.m., Friday and on Saturday competition will resume at 11 a.m.

The championships for each of the 13 weight classes will be decided at 5 p.m. There are still tickets available at $2 for each session and $3 for the finals. Your best bet is to get a package deal of $9 for all of the sessions.

Rouge, Inkster to clash

"It was a difficult game," said Grant, "because Ecorse is one of the toughest teams around to play on their home court. I feel Lewis's two dunks in the second half really turned it around for us."

And 21 points from Anthony Pasley didn't hurt either. Pasley drilled seven field goals and made 7 of 8 at the free throw line for his game-high points. Davis's 16 was second best for the Vikings who outscored Ecorse from the field 27-25 and made 13 of 17 from the free throw line as compared to the Raiders' 13 of 19.

Ron Brown and Anthony Frazier also helped the Viking cause with exceptional performances coming off the bench and filling in for a couple of foul-plagued teammates.

"We still have to do a little better job with our defense and offense to be considered a real good team," Grant said. "We have to get some consistency in our game."

Although the defense couldn't stop Phil Jarvis who scored a career high 33 points, Inkster's balanced scoring paved the way for the Vikings' 85-78 victory over Clawson earlier in the week. Jarvis hit on 14 field goals and made 5 of 6 foul contributions for high game high 33 points.

Inkster countered with double figures from Tucker, who had 20, Davis with 18, while Pasley and Jerome Prewitt chipped in 15 and 14 points respectively.

"It was a good game for both teams," Grant said, "and it was strictly an offensive game."

Cherry Hill is champ

Both Riverside and Melvindale attempted to utilize slow-downed tactics against the Spartans who had more than their share of problems in the first half against both teams.

Riverside led 15-13 in the first period and jumped out in front 31-23 before the intermission. Then, Cherry Hill managed to get its running game going and turned to Greg Thopson and Ken Winfrey to lead them out of the mess. Thompson scored six of his game high 21 points in the third period while Winfrey and Gerald Lee gave the Spartans undisputable control on the boards as they out rebounded the Rebels 22-6 in the second half.

With scoring edges of 14-4 and 13-4 in the final two periods, Cherry Hill nailed down the victory and the championship. "Riverside played excellent ball in the first half," Bogataj offered, "but we came out in the second half and our defense held them to only three field goals the rest of the night, while Winfrey and Lee did the job for us on the boards."

Winfrey had 13 rebounds and joined Thompson in the double figure scoring column with 16.

It looked like old times when Cherry Hill and Melvindale clashed last Tuesday as the Cardinals restored to 'the stall' against the Spartans' speeding express. The two teams scored a total of 22 points the entire first half with Cherry Hill garnering leads of 6-4 and 12-10 after the first two periods.

When the Spartans outscored their hosts 11-2 in the third period, the Cardinals had to abandon their stall and the end result was a 41-27 loss. Winfrey's 12 points stood us as the game high.

Collision course

Belleville's Reggie Grantham (white jersey) can't put on the brakes as he slams into an Allen Park cager, and that cost the sharp-shooting Tiger guard a foul. When all of the action was over, Belleville was looking at a 54-53 Suburban 8 Conference loss. Coach Tom Niemi's cagers will wind down the regular phase of the season Friday night at Taylor Truman, then enter the Class A District Playoffs at Ypsilanti High. Among those who'll seek district honors are Ypsilanti, Temperance Bedford, Romulus, Monroe and Belleville. -Photo by Perry Farr.

They're unbeatable

Wayne Memorial, Runner-up in the state a year ago, is proving to be "unbeatable" in girls' volleyball as Coach Doris Busuito's Zebras picked up the Schoolcraft College Volleyball Championship to add to its string of tournament victories. The Zebras have posted 30 victories this year and are favored to win the Class A district title which will be battled over in Romulus

Now let me see...

With Wayne Head Coach Floyd Carter (at left) looking on and his blue chip protege, Rick Rogers with pen in hand, University of Michigan's head football coach Bo Schembechler looks over the paper work that will make Rogers a Wolverine this fall. A few seconds later

Rogers signed his national letter of intent. Rogers is the first all-state, all-area prep grinder from this area to sign with U of M in the past decade. The outstanding running back could see action as a freshman if the chips fall in the right places.
